"Learning Circus," As Much Fun as a Barrel of Monkeys, to Open 10-Day Stand Here

"I need some snow-fencing to enclose my giraffe," said Zelde Laschever to the Township Administrator.

Of course. A perfectly reasonable request from the ring-master (ring-person?) of a circus.

It's the Princeton Regional Schools' PTO Council "Learning Circus," which will parade into the Valley Road gym next Monday for a ten-day stay. Last day: Hallowe'en.

"Learning" Circus because its theme is the simple machine. The screw, the wheel and axle, the lever, the inclined plane, the wedge and the pulley are the glittering stars in this extravaganza.

Children will visit the exhibit—pardon, the Circus—during the school day, their bus travel from such distant points as Johnson Park and Riverside financed by the PTO Council.

After school, until 5 p.m., children may visit if their parents come along. The same rule prevails on Saturday morning, October 26, when the Circus will be operating from 10 until noon.

And "operating" is the word. "This is a 'Do Touch!' exhibit," Mrs. Laschever says, arranging the final folds on a circus tent. "Except for the beautiful primitive tools we've borrowed from the University, everything and I mean absolutely everything, can be touched and worked and operated."

The Circus has involved all grades in the school system, and many community people as well. Every Wednesday afternoon, Marty Schneiderman, who teaches 4th-5th grade multi-age at Riverside, has worked with six Middle School pupils to construct the machines themselves. Machines are built out of ingenuity, cardboard, rope, imagination and some good solid pieces of wood.

Here's an Archimedes screw, made from a yard-long plastic cylinder about three inches in diameter. Around the outside, a student has wrapped the kind of plastic tubing you use in a fishtank. Put the bottom in colored water and you can see the water spiraling up through the clear tube—a simple, primitive pump.

Three sets of pulleys use one, two and three wheels. One of the students brought some scuba-diving weights he'd made at home and put them on each pulley. Using a spring scale, you can demonstrate the amount of force it takes to lift the weights, depending on the pulley arrangement.

A large block and tackle, borrowed from the schools' facilities department, has been attached to the gym ceiling. Kids can lift one another off the ground for a nice little ride.

One of the girls in the group had some handsome wood pieces at home. She brought these in, and arranged them at various angles. Again, using spring scales, the visitor to the Circus can see how much force is needed to pull anything up an inclined plane.

"Trouble is," Mr. Schneiderman shakes his head, "we really can't illustrate the wedge because any device would be really hazardous

School Referendum Defeated A Second Time

For the second time in four months, Princeton voters have defeated a referendum to remodel their high school. Tuesday's defeat of the $4.9 million Part One, of the two-part referendum was by 319 votes, almost exactly the same as the June 15th defeat margin of 300 votes.

The tally: 1,972 "no" to 1,653 "yes." That's the combined Borough-Township figure for Part One. The second part of the referendum, providing for additional remodeling at a cost of $1.2 million, was defeated by 2,177 to 1,366. It could not have gone into effect unless Part One had passed also.

Borough voters cast 663 "no" and 446 "yes" votes. In the Township, the count was 1,309 "no" to 1,207 "yes." There are 13,257 registered voters in the two communities by the most recent official figures. New registration figures aren't yet available.

Winthrop Pike, school board president, said after the defeat that the present board doesn't plan a third referendum, although the board that takes office in February might.

"The earliest possible time for another referendum would be next spring, if at all," he said. "People just thought too much money was involved."

he replied, when asked why the referendum was voted down a second time, "Either that, or they were not convinced renovation was educationally necessary. The effect of this defeat on the morale of kids and teachers is something the town should do a little thinking about."

George Petrillo, PHS principal, said he was "very disappointed" in the referendum's defeat.

"I'm disappointed for the kids who are here now, but also for future kids coming here from the Middle School and elementary schools," he said.

"Many on the faculty had worked hard to plan what they

ALL FOR SCIENCE: No, they're not skinning the elephant; they're putting skin on, in the form of painstaking applications of paste and newspaper against a splendid chicken-wire armature. The elephant will be trumpeting his presence at the Learning Circus in the Valley Road building gym starting next Monday. Alexandra Henderson (left) and Abby Sly are working him over. (That's an old vacuum-cleaner hose he's using for a trunk.)

for kids. An adze, for example. A wedge is used to move heavy objects and a heavy object could really damage somebody if it fell. I guess we'll have to use pictures.....

Students have made a balance for weighty objects, marking different parts so that the fulcrum isn't always in the center.

"We show how a fat kid and a skinny kid can balance, if the fulcrum isn't in the middle," Mr. Schneiderman points out, "but we built this balance low to the ground with weights you lift on and off. It's not a seesaw to ride, again because of safety."

Working together, the six students cut out of cardboard a pair of giant gears three feet and two feet in diameter to demonstrate how gear ratio works. Still in process is a mysterious Rube Goldberg contraption designed to demonstrate many principles of simple machines, maybe even all at the same time.

Mr. Schneiderman's Middle School crew consists of Suzanne Wilder, Frances Johnston, Heidi Skillman, Kenneth Glucksberg, Curtis Davidson and Matthew Thompson.

Round and Round. Meanwhile, over in the John Witherspoon Middle School home economics department, teacher Phyllis Caras has another crew building a ferris wheel over five feet tall. It's a wooden wheel that turns and "works," and it will have shoebox seats strung just like the seats on a real ferris wheel, so that doll figures can take a ride.

"The wheel really combines all kinds of education," Ms. Caras observes. "We used math to figure out the dimensions: the wood had to be sawed and aligned just right, so the wheel will turn properly. This leads the kids to understand why every part of education is important."

The ferris wheel has been built to attract youngsters in the third through fifth grades, so it is brightly painted and, in Ms. Caras' smiling description, "gimmicky."

"We think in terms of older Middle School students building this wheel to help the younger kids in lower grades," she says. "Reinforce one grade level, and teach another."

What is a Circus without a fun-house? And what is a fun-house without those crazy mirrors?

Alcoa Aluminum has produced, as a loan to Mrs. Laschever, a huge, highly-polished sheet of aluminum. Bend it, and you can giggle for hours over the way you look.

And circus costumes! The Hamid-Morton Circus (George Hamid lives in Princeton) has opened its costume trunks and lent real, true circus costumes, like the long gold aerialist's cape and the giant clown's head.

He Packs a Trunk. The chicken-wire elephant, patiently awaiting the next coat of papier-mache, has been assembled under Barbara Faughnum's direction. He's about six feet tall, with a trunk made from an old vacuum-cleaner hose which Mrs. Laschever scrounged in some far-off attic.

He's just background, of course. So is the giraffe. Did you see him, the day he was transported from his Littlebrook School pen to Valley Road in an open truck? He shook up more than one solid citizen on that ride.

More background comes from artists in the schools and community. Nancy Arcamone's home economics class in the high school has been making clown wall-hangings geared—if you will pardon the expression—to the youngest circus visitors, ages three and four.

A clown on a unicycle (the wheel); a clown pushing a ball up an (inclined plane); a clown being pulled up by a crane (pulley); two clowns on a see-saw (lever); a clown squeezing his friend's head in a vice (screw).

Lace and yarn, fur fabric and sleek plastic has been used for these collages, giving toddlers the experience of texture as well as function. The hangings will be used after the Circus for children in the nursery class taught by Mrs. Arcamone at the high school.

Art classes in the Middle School under Marv Levitt have made "the biggest baby in the world," a lion jumping through a fiery wheel, and a spectacular entrance arch. These have been executed as wall hangings, on old bed-sheets.

Adult artists around Princeton are at work, too. Printmakers have used skill and imagination to illustrate the wheel, the lever gears and the inclined plane in various print techniques. The printmakers are Joan Needham, Mae Rockland, Judy Brodsky, Helen Schwartz, Marie Sturken, Trudy Glucksberg, Yvonne Burk, Ann Gross and Elaine Ellerstein.

Margaret Sullivan has done 15 science panels, each one four by eight feet, which will be hung in sets of three to illustrate the scientific principles demonstrated by the operable machines. Great, life-size backgrounds are under construction by artists Maxine Gurk, Maxine Farmer, Joy Parsons, Barbara Schaeffer.

And other teachers, are busy like Art Stetson in the high school art department; James Lodge, Middle School teacher and Eugene Biringer, the Community Park principal who's staff co-ordinator for the whole show. Lois Sheptin is in charge of staging. All community workers are volunteer, and the PTO's Regional Council has provided the money for materials from its budget.

The giraffe? He's stuffed, sorry to say. Seven feet tall. Yes, he'll be behind snow-fencing. No need to be alarmed.

Counterfeit $50 Bills in Town; Police Provide Serial Numbers

A Nassau Street restaurant was the recipient Sunday of a counterfeit $50 bill which was passed by a cool operator who returned to the restaurant after he discovered he was under suspicion.

Capt. Theodore Lewis described the bill, which has been forwarded to the Treasury Department, as "excellent paper" and well done. "When I first looked at it, I couldn't believe it was counterfeit," he said. Capt. Lewis warned all merchants in the area to be alert to any $50 bills they may receive.

The counterfeit bill bore a Series 1969 mark and the following serial number: B 4122663D. Capt. Lewis says fake $50 bills in the area may also contain these serial numbers: B 60559069B or B 08394326A.

The passer was described as white, about 60, 5-3 to 5-5 tall, medium build with grey hair and grey moustache. He was partially bald and wearing a grey tweed suit, police said.

Capt. Lewis gave the following account. The suspect gave a cashier in the restaurant the $50 bill to pay for a 94-cent tobacco purchase. When the cashier looked at the bill and began to scrutinize it, the suspect allegedly told her: "There's no problem with that bill; I just got three from the bank." The woman handed over $49.06 in change.

After the suspect left, Capt. Lewis continued, the woman remembered it was Sunday and wondered how he could have gotten the $50 from the bank. She asked another employee to follow the suspect and see what car he got into and note its license number.

According to Capt. Lewis, the suspect noticed the woman following him. He went back to the restaurant, ordered a hamburger and later departed for the second time.

Still not sure, the two women called the police. Sgt. Thomas Michaud responded, examined the bill and told them it was counterfeit. "He just outsmarted them," commented Capt. Lewis.

Capt. Lewis urges merchants in the area if they have any doubts or suspicions about a bill, to try to detain the passer if possible and notify police immediately.

ON THE AGENDA
For School Board. Two controversial school programs, at each end of the age scale, will be on the agenda at the October meeting of the school board, to be held at 8 p.m. next Tuesday in Community Park School.

Also, the very existence and continuation of a K-12 grade cycle will be considered, in light of the long-range planners' suggestion that one year could well be dropped from the K-12 span.

The board has scheduled a vote on whether to continue the pre-kindergarten program for four-year-olds in 1975-76. Last year, the board agreed to make its pre-K decision in the fall of the year so that parents will have time to make plans.

Board president Winthrop Pike told a press conference this week that he will recommend dropping pre-K for budget reasons. Superintendent Philip E. McPherson recommends dropping it also. Two teachers are employed in the program.

Program at High School. The Learning Community, at Princeton High, is the other program up for discussion. A memo from George Petrillo, high school principal, will provide a base for student-parent-board comment.

The memo reports on meetings held in late spring, in which parents, students and staff, considered such questions as allocation of time within the Learning Community (how much time should be spent organizing activities, setting up course content, etc.); whether students should have the major role in determining what they study and what provisions are made for students with learning problems; whether students were developing the ability to interrelate knowledge derived from different disciplines and so on.

Mr. Petrillo says some parents "are delighted with the intellectual and social growth" of their children while others are concerned by lack of challenge, "the feeling that students are not made to work, the problem of keeping track of students and lack of adequate communication."

Mr. Petrillo concludes by recommending "more work in the area of evaluation" of the Community.

Re-organizing the schools to a cycle different from K-12 will require "tremendous manpower." Mr. Pike and Superintendent McPherson told the press. Dietrich Meyerhofer, of the board, will introduce a resolution asking the superintendent to present a procedure, which will include a school-wide curriculum review.

Pupil Census: 1,225. With Princeton High now down to a pupil population of 1,225, the school system is ready to take in non-resident students whose parents might be willing to pay the $2,200 tuition.

For the first time, the board will receive a full report on school and state policy in placing handicapped children. Dr. Charles Huchet, director of Student Services, prepared the report at board request. If the material is ready in time, the board may discuss procedures making administrative tenure appointments. "We want to get some order out of conflicting procedures," Mr. Pike commented. Basically, the board is concerned with notifying an administrator of tenure far enough ahead in the school year so that both board and staff member can make plans for the future.

YEDLIN IN THE NEWS
Before Township Zoning. The 100-unit Yedlin public housing project, proposed for land at Mt. Lucas and Ewing, is back in the news again. It will be on the Township Zoning Board agenda for next Wednesday, October 23, at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

Benedict Yedlin, the developer, has lost the option to buy four acres belonging to the Free and Accepted Order of Masons, but he retains his own land plus the option to buy land from Basil Ferrara. He now wants to build the 100 units for the Borough Housing Authority on 10.5 acres, instead of the original 14.5 acres. This means an increase in density from seven units per acre to 9.5 units per acre. He plans 60 units for the elderly and 40 for families.

Mr. Yedlin holds a bulk variance and a use variance from the Zoning Board. Loss of the four acres means the project is no longer oriented to Route 206, and Mr. Yedlin will ask the Zoning Board to eliminate the requirement to build an emergency roadway to Route 206. Ewing and Mt. Lucas are now the only streets involved.

Mr. Yedlin also wants the board to extend the period of time within which he must obtain a building permit. The last extension expired August 5 of this year. Municipal attorneys—Gordon Griffin for Township Committee and Ivan Bash for the Zoning Board,—have been debating which body Mr. Yedlin should petition for the extension.

The Zoning Board grants extension of bulk variances, Township Committee of use variances. Since without the bulk variance the use variance isn't much use, the attorneys decided to send Mr. Yedlin and the Housing Authority first to the Zoning Board.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
Thanet? No. Disenchanted, for some cryptic reason, with the name "Thanet Road," the Institute for Defense Analyses will ask Township Committee Monday night to change the name of IDA's new street to Mathews Circle.

IDA officials decline to reveal anything about Mr. Mathews—Mrs. Mathews? Miss Mathews?—or why a circle should be named for him or her, in advance of Monday's meeting.

In other business Monday, Committee will request "urbanization" designation for certain Township streets under last year's Federal Aid to Urban Systems act. If the designation is granted, Federal money will provide complete financing for redoing the streets involved. The Borough took similar action last week.

Committee will also act to obtain Federal Emergency Employment Act money for partial funding of a new job—the recreation supervisor who will develop programs for women and for the elderly. The Township is recreation banker in this joint Borough-Township department.

Municipalities involved have to give their approval before the $425,000 fee for making the sewer infiltration study can be made to the contractor, Brokaw Engineering Associates, Inc. The Township is scheduled to pass its authorization Monday. The Borough has already done so.

Committee will wrestle once again with the legal language in an ordinance changing from six months to one year the interval during which a building permit must be obtained after a zoning variance has been granted.

Public hearing will be held on the ordinance bringing civilian employees on the Township payroll into line with the 8.5 percent increase granted police.

"Covert Operations: Their Use, Abuse and Control," the meeting will bring together William P. Bundy, Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs during much of the Vietnam conflict; Ray S. Cline, for four years Deputy Director for Intelligence of the CIA; Morton H. Halperin, in 1969-70 a senior staff member of the National Security Council; and William G. Miller, at one time Special Assistant for Foreign Affairs and Defense Matters to former Senator John Serman Cooper (R., Ky.).

The symposium is the first of what is expected to be a number of public forums to air prime issues of national importance, according to Woodrow Wilson School Dean Donald E. Stokes. Mr. Stokes says he would like to see the school -- long a center for training young people for careers in the public sector -- become "more directly responsive to current issues of policy."

Following brief opening remarks by each participant, a panel exchange and response to audience questions will fill out the expected two-hour long meeting.

Dr. Richard H. Ullman, Professor of International Affairs at Princeton and Director of Studies for the Council on Foreign Relations in New York City, said:

"Recent revelations of CIA activities designed to subvert the Allende government in Chile raise once again the continuing question of whether such activities are ever justified on the part of a society which espouses the values and ideals traditionally upheld by the United States, and if ever justifiable, how such activities might be made more responsive to public control."

Foreign Affairs Editor, Mr. Bundy, now editor of the journal Foreign Affairs, was in the Department of Defense as Assistant Secretary for International Security Affairs in 1963-64. From 1964 until 1969 he served as Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs.

Mr. Cline, now Executive Director of Studies at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, Georgetown University, was the CIA's Deputy Director of Another week or so is left of the fall foliage season in these parts, travelers who went to New Hampshire for the Princeton-Dartmouth game report that the peak has already passed there, and the line is moving steadily southward.

Cooler weather is due to take over Thursday and Friday, the Man says, but a milder trend will replace that for the weekend. Meanwhile, the first half of October vanished without a trace of rain. Mid-week showers were in the forecast as a possibility, but even if they materialize, the dry spell has been the longest of the year.

CYCLIST HOSPITALIZED

After Striking Car. A Bound Brook motorcyclist was admitted to Princeton Medical Center and operated on Monday afternoon after he collided with a turning car on Bayard Lane.

Frank J. Skiermont, 45, was taken by ambulance to the Medical Center, suffering internal injuries, a fractured right leg and bruises and contusions. Following an operation he was placed in the intensive care unit.

Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt has charged the driver, Selma L. Ehrlich, 39, 145 South Main Street, Pennington, with making an improper turn. Police said that she was turning left onto Avalon Place when the cyclist, traveling north on Bayard Lane, continued straight ahead and struck the right front of Mrs. Ehrlich's small foreign car.

The impact threw the driver over the hood of the car and he landed in the roadway 11 feet away. The front wheel of his motorcycle came to rest under the front wheel of the car. Police described it as a total wreck. No skid marks were left by either vehicle, police said.

Police quoted Mrs. Ehrlich as saying that she "did not see the motorcycle until he hit me." Ptl. Lenhardt has not yet been able to interview the victim.

MORATORIUM GOES ON

For Six Months. The West Windsor Township Committee this week passed on first reading an ordinance extending for six months the present moratorium on construction of residential buildings. The present moratorium, in effect since 1972, is due to expire November 30.

The Township has under consideration a proposed master plan, but the Planning Board has not yet given the plan its final approval.

One West Windsor landowner, Mrs. Ruth Buchak, said she would challenge the moratorium extension in court. She called it "abusive and unreasonable" and said that it was deflating the value of land in the Township.

The extension was passed by a 4-1 vote. All three Democrats and Republican Richard Walter voted for the extension. Mr. Walter urged that a time table be made for enacting the master plan as soon as possible because, he said, he was certain the extension would be challenged in court.

Committeeman Stefan Guzy, objecting to the six-month time limit as too long, voted against the moratorium extension.

Building Site. The Committee also revealed its "unanimous choice" for the site of its planned municipal building. The site of 13 acres of the Applegate Farm behind the Dutch Neck police station.

The price was negotiated at $7,500 per acre, for a total of $97,500. The Committee amended the original ordinance to raise the appropriation to $100,000 because of additional details that need to be worked out. Committee decided that it would condemn the property if an agreement could not be reached by its next meeting, Monday, October 28.

THAT PROPERTY TAX

Not Up to True Value. Neither the Borough nor the Township actually assesses property at the state-required 100 percent of true value, and both municipalities are slipping back each year.

Figures released last week by the state's Division of Taxation show that the Borough has dropped 8.8 percent and the Township almost 11 percent. This means that the Borough is currently assessing properties at only 59.6 percent of their true value, and the Township at 87 percent of true value.

The biggest drop, state figures show, was in West Windsor, where the average assessment fell from last year's 86 percent to 68 percent. Hopewell Township dropped by 15 percent, but Hopewell Borough is actually assessing at 103 percent, the state says. Hopewell revalued its properties last year.

Pennington Borough has dropped from 94.5 percent of true value to 86.5 percent. Lawrence Township had the smallest drop: from 91 per-

What do you do when you wake up in the morning? Do you groan, get out of bed with your eyes shut, feel your way to the kitchen for your first cup of coffee? Why not change that wake-up routine? The best way to do this is to have plenty of fresh air in the room. Toss off bedclothing, way off, even from your feet. Push away the pillows and lie flat. Stretch legs and arms one at a time and make them feel long. Then tense abdominal muscles, relax, tense and relax. Limber your neck the same way. Climb out of bed easily. Now you are awake and you feel great.

NEWARK MAN CHARGED
With Bike Theft. A Newark resident has been charged with larceny of a bicycle by Borough police and possession of burglary tools after he was arrested last week on Nassau Street in his car by Ptl. William Fitch and Sgt. Thomas Procaccino.

Get That Bus Rolling!

A letter to Governor Brendan Byrne is in the mail this week from Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and Township Mayor Jay Bleiman, urging release of Department of Transportation money to keep Princeton's loop buses rolling.

Zero hour for the bus system is Halloween—October 31. Not very far away. The letter points out that it would be dismaying indeed if state money came along too late to catch the bus—what good is the money if it isn't authorized until a couple of weeks after the bus system has died, the mayors ask?

Mayor Cawley said this week that he and Mayor Bleiman hope to go to Trenton—presumably by bus—to see if its true that budgeted money simply hasn't yet been released to the Department of Transportation.

Through Mercer County, the two Princetons have applied for $23,000 to keep the loop buses rolling. So far, there hasn't even been an answer to the application, Mayor Cawley said.

account for. In addition, police uncovered a pair of cutting shears.

Police add that Rivera was seen taking the orange bicycle from in front of the Wine and Game Shop on Nassau Street around 7 Thursday morning. The witness notified police.

Rivera was arraigned before Borough Judge Philip Carchman and later released on 10 percent bail, after Judge Carchman set bail at $3500. He is scheduled to appear in Borough court November 6.

Princeton Medical Center Utilizing New Device To Perfect Techniques in Breast Examinations

Breast examinations that are safer, faster and more reliable, are now being done at the Princeton Medical Center with a new device, especially developed for high-risk women.

It is the Mammogram Unit, designed for a specialized kind of breast X-ray examination. According to Dr. William W. Wynn, attending radiologist at the Center, the mammogram unit has definite advantages over standard X-ray techniques previously available.

The unit is recommended for women with a strong family history of breast cancer, women who have had cancer in the opposite breast, women whose breasts are difficult to examine, or who have chronic cystic or inflammatory conditions of the breast.

It is not practical for routine breast examinations, Dr. Wynn says. There are too few machines and too few radiologists to do the test on every woman every year.

As it is used at the Medical Center, the mammogram unit reduces the patient's radiation exposure to one-eighth of the amount given with conventional mammogram techniques. This is possible through the use of a special intensifying screen which, Dr. Wynn explained, "intensifies the image produced by the X-ray. A vacuum cassette loader developed by Dupont allows use of the intensifying screen in a manner appropriate to mammography."

Built into the unit is an automatic exposure control which "turns off the machine when the exposure is just right." Dr. Wynn and the other members of the Radiology Department worked extensively with installation technicians this spring to set up a series of standard film exposures

The Medical Center chose the mamogram unit over another technique, called Xeroradiography. Here, a selenium-coated aluminum plate is used instead of the vacuum cassette. When X-rays strike this electrostatically charged photoconductive surface, an

According to tests conducted at Albert Einstein Medical Center, Philadelphia, the Xeroradiographic technique produces high-quality pictures of calcium deposits in the breast, but may not always indicate masses within this tissue. AN OPEN QUESTION TO THE PRINCETON COMMUNITY

What Would Consolidation Do To The Character of the Borough?

The argument most often put forward in favor of consolidation is that it is the only logical, practical thing to do. But is it? The Borough does not have much more room to grow, except perhaps up. With high density housing we could absorb perhaps another 1000 people. At the moment it is a fairly complete village with a diversity of neighborhoods and people. The two Princetons, however, are expected to grow from their present 26,000 to 40,000 by 1990. Almost all of this growth will be in the Township.

Under consolidation what effect will this projected growth have on the character of the Borough? Such growth will be expensive. Municipal services for such an enlarged community could burden the Borough right into the condition of many of our state and national center cities. The Borough, then, becomes the downtown area with all the demands placed upon it to become more and more commercial.

Increased growth brings increased commercialization. This would bring an increase in traffic and pollution, the financial burden of garages and the demand for expanded and additional roadways through Borough residential areas for access into the downtown area.

Would Princeton Borough be able to remain a village under these circumstances? Does it wish to? What happens to our small service shops? They are vitally necessary to an economically healthy Borough. Would they be able to remain in business? Many of our small shopkeepers are afraid of being driven out of business by an expanding downtown area limited in space. Princeton's sizable elderly community depends on these shops to remain self-sufficient. If we lost our service shops and senior citizens, what would happen to the character of the Borough?

Princeton is made up of many diverse neighborhoods. Many groups in the Borough worry that consolidation will cause them to lose their voice in local government. A ward system might alleviate this problem. However, a ward system also might deepen the rifts that already exist between some of our neighborhoods. Under the present system we must represent and be responsive to all the people, not just a particular section.

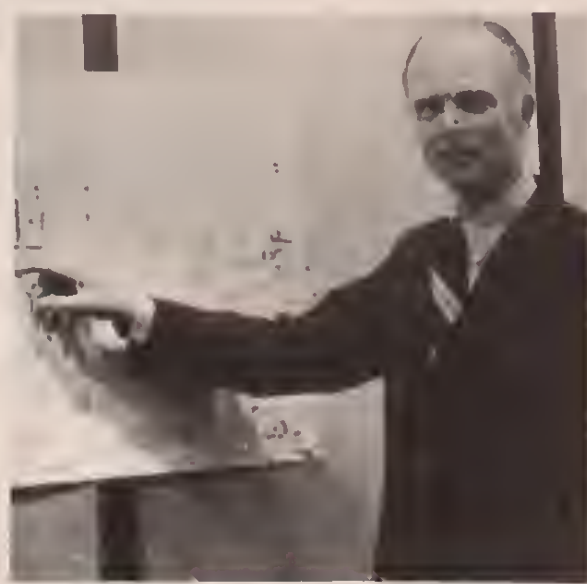

There are many other aspects of consolidation which must be taken into consideration. Character is only one, but perhaps a very important one.

Just as these are open questions, we have open minds to your responses.

masses within the breast. Also, because of the intensifying screen, the dosage of radiation to the patient is much less than that used with Xerography equipment. For two reasons then—decreased dosage and wider span of reliability—the radiology department prefers the intensifying screen technique. "As a single method we picked what we thought was the better unit," commented Dr. Wynn.

Reduced dosage of radiation is important. Patients who have only one breast X-ray examination probably would not appreciate the benefits of the lower dosage as much as patients who require repeated examinations. "With the Mammogram Unit," said Dr. Wynn, "we can safely do an examination every six months to a year for many years."

A related technique, specimen mammography, is being employed in breast surgery. When a patient undergoes exploratory surgery, the biopsy specimen taken from the suspected area is taken to the radiology department, along with the original mammograms. The radiologist uses the mammogram unit to examine the entire specimen, and determine whether the area of suspicion has been removed. This can be done quickly while the patient is anesthetized.

The pathologist can then be directed to the suspicious area for his microscopic examination. If the diagnosis is benign, the patient may be taken out of surgery, and further study of the specimen will be done for final verification. If the diagnosis is malignant, surgery can be performed without re-anesthetizing the patient.

Dr. Wynn estimates that with the new mammogram unit the patient's time for the examination is reduced by about one half; her dosage of radiation is reduced to one-eighth of that received from standard mammograms, and 25 per cent beyond that, by the reduction in repeat examinations. The examination is far less uncomfortable as well.

PRINCETON MAN NAMED

To State Position. James C. L. Baxendale of 65 Shadybrook Lane has been appointed deputy director of the Division of Rate Counsel of the Department of Public Advocate.

Mr. Baxendale, who worked as a consultant to U.S. District Court Judge Vincent P. Biunno while Biunno was Chief Rate Counsel of New Jersey, served as a consultant in for the establishment of the division under the new department. He was appointed as a deputy public advocate when the department officially began to represent the public in rate matters last June. He will earn $29,500 annually in his new post.

The division now is active in 19 rate matters before the Public Utilities Commission in requests for rate examinations. "With the creases total more than $450 million."

A native of England, Mr. Baxendale, 28, is a graduate of Rutgers College and the Rutgers-Newark Law School. He also has done post-graduate law work at Oxford University in England where he is a member of Magdalen College and expects this fall to receive a Masters in Business Administration degree from the Rutgers Graduate School of Business.

Mr. Baxendale was the founder and the first editor-in-chief of the Rutgers Journal of Computers and the Law and is chairman of the State Bar Association Committee on Court Applications of Electronic Data Processing. He is married to the former Susan Fassbender of Essex Fells. Mrs. Baxendale is an attorney with the Princeton firm of Mason, Griffin & Pierson.

CALCULATOR, FLUTE GO

In Series of Thefts. A pocket calculator valued at $795 was stolen last week from a locked office in the Engineering Quadrangle of Princeton University. The theft, which took place between 10:30 p.m. and 8:30 the next morning, is being investigated by Det. Ronald Holiday of the Borough police.

A $100 flute was taken last week from an unlocked locker at Valley Road School. Township police identified the owner as Julie Lewin, 7 Gordon Way.

James Baxendale

A brown jacket valued at $75 was taken Thursday from Room 113 in Community Park School between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. The victim was Ann Stefan, 37 Taylor Road.

Tax Money Stolen. A pint ice cream container that was used to collect state sales tax money was stolen last week from the Dairy Queen in the Princeton Shopping Center. Police said someone reached in and grabbed the container which held about $2 in change. Sgt. Michael Kopliner and Sgt. Anthony Pinelli, Township juvenile officer, are investigating. Police report they have several suspects.

A Trenton resident, who parked his car in the Princeton YMCA lot last week, lost an 8-track stereo player and two speakers after someone forced a window and removed the items from his car. His loss: $66.95. Det. Charles Harris investigated.

A sales clerk at Gallery 100 on Nassau Street lost $12 Saturday when someone removed her wallet from her purse which she had left behind a sales counter. Police say they have no suspects in the theft, which occurred between 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

5 Minutes: Briefcase Gone. Between 4 and 4:05 Monday afternoon, a Markham Road resident lost his brown leather briefcase which someone snatched from his unlocked car parked on Charlton Street. Inside, police said, was a black leather wallet containing $10.

WOMAN'S PURSE STOLEN

On University Place. A 63-year old Township woman had her purse snatched Monday night while she was walking on University Place near College Road.

Police said that the victim was knocked to the ground but unhurt. She lost her black leather purse containing $15 and a personal check.

The purse-snatcher was described as about 18 to 20, six feet tall, wearing a white sweater and dark trousers. Ptl. Peter Hanley and Ptl. David Alston investigated the 8:21 incident.

It always happens so fast.
And, this time, you're right. It did happen to "the other guy."
You know: The guy who wouldn't hurt a fly, turn down a friendly drink—or take a cab home instead of driving.
A nice guy who'd now and then smoke in bed, maybe swim out a little too far, sometimes hurry a little down the stairs.
We know you knew him. And that you'll miss him.
We just don't want you to join him.
'Oops' is a pitiful epitaph.

window last week to enter a home on Riverside Drive between 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Borough police report that dresser drawers were searched and jewelry boxes opened but nothing was reported missing. Det. Timothy Huizing is investigating.

Carter Hall Entry. Township police report an entry Thursday afternoon at 2 in Carter Hall on the Hun School campus.

Police said that someone entered the apartment of Gerald Donaldson by way of a sliding glass door in the living room. The victim's son, police said, first heard someone walking around in the kitchen. When he called out to ask who was there, police said the intruder fled, overturning a chair.

Nothing was missing or disturbed, they said. Ptl. John Clausen investigated.

PARK 'N SHOP

In "New" Lot. Before the month is out, the two parking lots between Chambers and John Streets will be a single park-and-shop lot, under the joint eye of the Borough and Palmer Square, with the Square acting as gate-keeper.

Borough Council acted to effect the change at its meeting last Tuesday, although a petition of 340 signatures, presented by Dr. William H. Burchfield, who has dental offices at 21 Chambers, protested the move.

Meter heads will be removed, because payment by meter will no longer be in effect. "This will get police enforcement out of parking," Mayor Robert W. Cawley has observed.

Dr. Burchfield and his fellow petitioners say it will be too costly to park there all day. But the mayor pointed out that both patients and employees of Dr. Burchfield's office could get rebates, the way customers of stores now do with existing park-and-shop lots.

Rates will be 15c an hour for the first two hours; 30c an hour for the third and fourth hours and 50c an hour after that.

By THE TOWN CRIER

Current reports from the various Bicentennial Committees indicate serious and thoughtful consideration to activities for the 200th celebration.

Committee on Arts and Music has under way a portfolio sponsored by the Princeton Area Graphics group. Lee Bristol is surveying the possibilities of presenting musical programs "of the times" and plans for another Festival of Song under the aegis of the United Fund.

The Library Committee led by Robert Staples and his staff is preparing a bibliography of holdings pertaining to 1776 Princeton. The master Bicentennial Calendar will be kept by the Public Library.

Historic Sites Committee headed by Connie Grief plans to have a color scheme marking buildings relating to the Bicentennial.

Random Notes: The Orange Key Guide Service continues to guide tourists on the Princeton campus, now placing special emphasis on the history of the Revolutionary area. An entry for suggestions for '76 celebration includes a "Ragamuffin" Parade simulating the rag-tag military, a collection of jump-rope rhymes reflecting past eras.

the Inter-Local Services Act, and the Township has already begun to move in this direction; however, there is some doubt that a health department created under this act would meet state Department of Health standards. Council members said they wanted to know more.

The new Federal Aid to Urban Systems Act will finance completely the construction of certain streets if "urbanization" designation is made. Council passed a resolution applying for such designation.

The streets are all of Harrison, Moore, Wither-spoon, Washington, Avalon-Wiggins-Hamilton, Mercer; the Borough portion of Rosedale and Elm from Stockton to Rosedale.

An ordinance was introduced allowing bicycling on Nassau from Moore to Harrison Street North. Public hearing November 20—a date chosen because the League of Municipalities' convention will be in progress on Council's normal meeting day.

Council went on record, by a 3-2 vote, as "disapproving" the concept of legalized casino gambling and urging citizens to vote "no" on the referendum in November. The measure was introduced by Arthur Morgan, who was joined by Barbara Sigmund and Thomas Cawley. Council members Joseph P. Moore and Robert Powell voted against the resolution.

Mayor Cawley named

Robert Bosley, 175 John Street, to the Joint Civil Rights Commission to fill the unexpired term of Stanley Adelson.

NATURE OUTING SET

Ry Watershed Group. An autumn family festival will be held at the Stony Brook Millstone Watersheds Association's environmental education center on Titus Mill Road on Saturday, October 26, from 2 to 5. The 400-acre farm and nature preserve will be the scene of numerous walks and tours, events and demonstrations throughout the afternoon.

Self-guided tours will lead through woods and fields. A forestry tour will be conducted by Prof. Richard West of Rutgers and John Kuser, while Ed LaPort will guide a walk to see fields and grasses. An exploration of the pond, led by Betsy Hager, will offer an opportunity to see snapping turtles, snakes, and other pond life.

There will be demonstrations of bird banding by Clara Goldbeck and Janet Aylward, and geology talks by Prof. Erling Dorf of Princeton. A weather station set up by Gordon Heinsler, assisted by Boy Scouts, will show how to make and fly a weather kite, and Boy Scouts will demonstrate a solar still.

Telebus, Where Are You?

Not on Princeton streets, at least not yet. Borough Council last week allowed Paul and Nance-ellen Draper the fare increase they wanted—from 50 cents to $1 for a one-way ride—and dropped the requirement that the Drapers' Telebus operate Saturdays. Township Committee had previously taken parallel action.

But so far, no Telebus. The Drapers told Township Committee last month they would have to re-hire drivers. Municipal officials point out that new drivers would have to be processed and approved by both Borough and Township before they can get behind the wheel.

No municipal official has yet heard from the Drapers, however. In remarks to Council earlier this fall, the Drapers said they wanted outside-the-bus advertising and permission to travel beyond Princeton's boundaries before resuming their service. They have made no formal request along these lines.

Township Mayor Jay Bleiman has said the Drapers promised to start Telebus again as soon as both governing bodies showed sincerity by introducing the fare-increase ordinance, but this has not occurred.

In Council's vote, Arthur Morgan voted "no." He explained that he'd prefer to see the Drapers operate without any restrictions at all.

A FOXY SOLUTION TO THE GAS PROBLEM.

FOX BY AUDI

The Fox by Audi gets about 25 miles to the gallon. Which is about average for an economy car. The thing is, the Fox isn't an economy car. It's a sports sedan. It does 0 to 50 in 8.4 seconds. It has sports car steering and suspension. As well as front-wheel drive. And the fact that you can buy a car that has all this (and more) for only $3,400* provides a Foxy solution to another problem as well.

RESPONSIVE GOVERNMENT BEGINS WITH LISTENING

Paid for by the Republican Club of Princeton

People tell us . . .

- They want to protect Princeton's environment. Having served as Coordinator for The Friends Of The Princeton Environment, I know that good land use planning is essential to keeping Princeton unique. As a member of Township Committee I would work to see that future planning for much-needed housing is based on the limitations of our physical environment and that powers to enforce regulations of development are made into law.
- Road widening must give way to low-cost reliable public transportation (such as the burgeoning loop bus) and bike paths to serve both people and the environment. As a member of the Joint Borough-Township Transportation Committee, I know these are both more efficient and make more economical use of our tax dollars.
- Housing must stay out of flood plains to prevent more costly flooding and erosion problems.
- Major sewer trunklines, like roads, must be assessed for their secondary impact, such as the encouragement of uncontrolled development. We need to establish a regional solid waste disposal system to save costs, dwindling landfills, and open space. As a member of the County Improvement Authority's committees on solid waste, I have studied this problem, but from the outset have been concerned with protection of our private local collectors.

BUSINESS

In Princeton

NEW LOOK FOR STAFF

At Princeton Savings. There's a new look at Princeton Savings and Loan Association — employees at both offices have been outfitted in career apparel. While customers readily notice the crisply-tailored look and the colorful harmony of the scene, sometimes it takes a second glance to notice that the women are in uniform. "Uniform," in fact, is a more than mildly inappropriate term for the designer outfits worn by Princeton Savings personnel. But whether they are called "career apparel," "custom suits," or "ensembles," the people involved in the program, from teller to president, all heartily endorse it.

The garments, color coordinated in an orange red, off-white and medium range blue, include dresses, jumpers, skirts, white blouses with small red dots throughout, and reversible red and blue vests. There are now six different combinations, with more to follow. Plans are also being made to present the men in matching blazers.

President William H. Booser, Jr., reports that his staff is enthusiastic about the style and easy care of the clothing. "Customers, too, have reacted very well to the new look, and have been generous with their compliments," he said.

Mr. Booser noted that "it helps customers identify personnel readily, it's an enjoyable fringe benefit for our people as well as a unifier, and it's just good business. The trend toward career clothing was started by the airlines which recognized the importance of apparel that would carry an image to the public and create corporate identity.

"Financial institutions have tried it in other parts of the country — particularly in Florida and California — with great success. We have always put great emphasis on customer service at Princeton Savings, and this helps illustrate the point," he added.

The new corporate image of Princeton Savings is projected not only in its main office at 132 Nassau Street, but also in the new Lawrenceville office at 2431 Main Street.

PRICE POLICY NOTED

At Davidson's. "Price Alert," a new pricing policy which tells the customer when an item is rising in price without making him pay the increase until the last possible moment, has been instituted at Davidson's Supermarket, 172 Nassau Street.

MARSH'S THREE MILLIONTH: Pharmacist Alexander Tompa of Marsh Pharmacy presents a free prescription and gift to Mrs. Priscilla Pols to mark the filling of Marsh's 3,000,000 prescription since it was founded in 1858.

Under the new policy, stock already on the shelves when a price increase takes effect will remain at the lower level. The higher-priced merchandise will be stocked behind the lower-priced merchandise on the shelf. Stickers announcing the price rise will also alert shoppers that they can stock up if they wish on the lower priced item.

Davidson's manager Lou Funk explained that the store used to increase prices on all items as soon as the prices were raised. "Week after week we would put sticker on top of sticker," he said. "People are fed up with the constant increases and I don't blame them. They wondered why we had to raise those items that we were willing to sell at a lower price the week before." The details of the Davidson's pricing policy are found in an advertisement on page 10.

The move by Davidson's, made in concert with the chain of supermarkets with which it is affiliated, represents a step that many consumer groups have been urging supermarkets to take as one effort to slow inflation.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

To Princeton Firm. The Instrumentation Division of General Devices, Inc., of Princeton, specialists in the design and manufacture of telemetry equipment, is the recipient of government defense contracts exceeding $52,000.

Murray Medvin, GDI Vice President and General Manager of this Division, announced that GDI was selected to supply telemetering instrumentation for the FPS-6A Radar Range and Height Indicator, a major component of the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System situated in remote areas throughout the world. RESPONSIVE GOVERNMENT BEGINS WITH LISTENING

People tell us . . .

- They want a more practical approach to public transportation . . . and at a price they can afford. My experience in planning and implementing complex business systems can be instrumental in finding cost-effective ways to provide this service. By fully developing systems, such as bicycle routes and dial-a-ride, Princeton can take the lead in demonstrating alternatives to the automobile.
- They are concerned with constant pressure for increases in Township taxes. My experience in understanding and controlling dollar expenditures as an executive of a large company will be applied to assure maximum use of your tax dollar.
- That adequate, affordable housing must be found so that senior citizens, workers in Princeton, and lower income groups are not forced out of the Township. This obligation must be met with the right balance of public and private funding so that the nature and character of Princeton will be maintained. My experience in finding practical long-range solutions to difficult problems will help determine the best Master Plan for Princeton's future.
- That they don't feel inspired or encouraged to participate in Township government. I feel the Township Committee should encourage citizen participation with a communications program which attracts public interest. My experience in directing diverse business groups toward the solution of common problems can be useful in discovering and reconciling the many points of view to be found in this community.

remote area to the fault evaluating devices at a home base to provide the user with an early warning.

Mr. Medvin also announced that the Division's revenues and earnings for the nine-month period ending September 30 increased sharply over a comparable period in 1973, despite decreases in aerospace telemetry usage. Mr. Medvin attributed these gains to the success of a program of cost controls instituted by his Division and to the increase in its industrial and commercial telemetry business.

NET INCOME UP

At Bank Holding Company. New Jersey National Corporation of Trenton has reported consolidated net income of $5,392,471 for the nine-month period ending September 30, an increase of seven percent over the 1973 total for the same period. Income per share for the nine-month period was $3.06 compared to $2.98.

Income per share for the third quarter was $1.08, up eight percent over the similar quarter in 1973. Deposits reached $644,448,070 at the end of the third quarter, an increase of $15,502,087 over the September 30, 1973, total.

New Jersey National Corporation is the parent corporation of New Jersey National Bank; New Jersey National Bank-Delaware Valley; New Jersey National Bank of Princeton; New Jersey National Leasing Corporation; and Underwood Mortgage and Title Company.

Richard G. Macgill, board chairman of the corporation, noted that "the number of demand deposit accounts grew satisfactorily during the third quarter largely due to customer response to our new Full Circle Account." The service, which was introduced in June of this year, offers a package of free banking services for a minimum balance of $300 in regular savings or for a flat monthly fee of $3 when the savings balance goes below $300.

SENIORS TO TRAVEL

To Poconos Tuesday. Retired persons of the Princeton area are invited to sign up for the day trip to the Poconos on Tuesday. Plans include leaving the YMCA at 9; following a route to see the fall foliage; a stop at Memory Town to see the restored shops; a visit to the wax museum; and a tour of the Pocono Mineral Land Gem Factory.

Dinner will be at the Pocono Sheraton Inn restaurant before returning home by 9. Mrs. Jenny Jackson urges early registration at the YMCA office.

NEW PROJECT PONDERED

By Plasma Physics Lab. The Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory (PPPL) is considering the construction of a major new fusion research device, the largest of its kind in the world, which will provide a significant step in the attempt to produce energy from fusion power.

The idea behind the new machine, which could be completed as early as 1980, and called a Two-Component Torus (TCT), was first suggested by Drs. John M. Dawson, Harold P. Furth and Frederick H. Tenney of PPPL.

This is Princeton could do in a remodeled building," Mr. Petrillo continued, "they'll continue to work and plan, but without question, it won't be as good with the kind of facilities we have now, as it would have been with a reactivated building."

As he had in mid-June, Charles Cornforth, former Borough Councilman, circulated a last-minute appeal this past week-end, focusing on the effect of the referendum on the community's taxes. Mr. Pike said he didn't regard the Cornforth flyer as a factor in the referendum's defeat.

Canal Law Signed

The historic Delaware and Raritan Canal that winds gently along the southern part of Princeton, will be protected from development and encroachment through special legislation signed last Thursday by Governor Brendan T. Byrne.

The measure provides for a nine-member park commission, to be appointed by the Governor. It will prepare a development plan for the canal and carry out its recommendations.

The 60-mile canal extends through Mercer, Somerset, Hunterdon and Middlesex counties.

in 1971. A preliminary conceptual design has now been carried out by a joint PPPL-Westinghouse Electric Corporation team and has been estimated to cost about $215 million including escalation.

The proposal, including an assessment of the environmental impact, is currently undergoing internal review by Princeton University as it nears the end of its conceptual design phase. Construction finally will depend upon approval of the plan and upon funding by the federal government as well as approval by the University. It has already received favorable technical assessment by a review committee of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and senior scientists in the U.S. plasma physics community.

The TCT device will be the first machine of its kind in the world actually attempting to demonstrate fusion using deuterium and tritium as a fuel and should enable the study of a large variety of physics and engineering problems necessary for the achievement of controlled thermonuclear fusion.

"The TCT will be a major national achievement and will mark an important step in the U.S. drive toward future self-sufficiency in energy resources," said Edward A. Frieman.

Fuels Limitless. Among the most serious contenders for alternate energy sources in the future, fusion power offers many very attractive environmental and safety features. The energy production process utilizes thermonuclear reactions of a kind similar to those which provide the energy for the sun and stars, and uses as fuel deuterium and tritium—heavy forms of hydrogen.

The potential quantities of fusion fuel in the world are almost unlimited since it is extracted from the oceans by processes which are economic and present no technical or environmental problems.

Over the last 20 years PPPL has built a number of research devices of increasingly large size devoted to the fundamental understanding of the physics of hot plasmas necessary to achieve the physical conditions under which fusion can occur.

Basically, a very hot gas (100,000,000 degrees) of deuterium and tritium must be contained or held for periods of a few tenths of a second. Under these extraordinary conditions, a new form of matter, termed a plasma, is formed and one of the few practicable ways to contain it involves the use of strong magnetic fields.

CHAVEZ TO SPEAK

Saturday at Seminary. Cesar Chavez, organizer and director of the United Farm Workers, will deliver a public lecture on "The United Farm Workers and Non-Violence" at Princeton Theological Seminary on Saturday at 7:30 in the Miller Chapel. Mr. Chavez recently returned to this country after conversations with Pope Paul VI and meetings with farm workers throughout western Europe.

Non-violence has been the keynote of Mr. Chavez' message throughout his 15-year public career. He emphasized his conviction in 1968 with a 25-day fast to reaffirm his union's position—a fast broken in company with Robert F. Kennedy, a supporter of the movement.

His union efforts began in 1962 with the National Farm Workers Association, an organization providing medical clinics, death benefits and a credit union for California vineyard workers. In 1965 members of another, largely Filipino group struck the grape industry, and Mr. Chavez encouraged his own people to join with them, to avoid being called in as strike breakers.

By 1967 the entire California grape industry was struck and a 50-city boycott of the fruit was effective by 1970. In that year major growers capitulated and signed with the union contracts incorporating most of the provisions Mr. Chavez had attempted to institute through the earlier NFWA.

Later in the same year 40,000 lettuce workers requested his help and that of the UFW in representing them in cases against the growers. Industry heads had signed contracts with the Teamsters Union without calling for either a secret-ballot or an authorization-card vote by the workers.

Grapes Again. A nationwide boycott of lettuce was called, and Mr. Chavez was jailed for his efforts. In 1972 the California Supreme Court upheld the UFW contention that the dispute was not, as the growers had claimed, a "jurisdictional dispute between two unions." The lettuce growers were ordered to permit free choice of union representation in an open election.

A year later, as the grape growers contracts expired, industry again called in the Teamsters Union. The results of that action are apparent in the present call for a national boycott on grapes.

JEWISH SERIES LISTED

Tuesday Lectures. Professor Shelomo D. Goitein will speak at the Jewish RELIEF IN SIGHT: When Keenan Orro, Princeton's street minister, heard that 18 families had been dislocated from their homes as a result of a fire that raced through six buildings on Monmouth Place in Trenton, he turned to the Princeton churches to help him collect clothing and bedding. In about 10 days more than 2,000 items had poured into Mr. Orro's office in the Chambers Street sanctuary of the Nassau Presbyterian Church, leaving barely enough room for him and a photographer. "I'd like to thank everyone who helped," he said. The supplies were transported to Trenton last week.

Center of Princeton Tuesday at 9 on "Jewish Life in the Middle Ages as Reflected in Documents from the Cairo Geniza."

Considered a leading authority on Jewish life in the Middle Ages, Prof. Goitein is presently at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton. He is Emeritus Professor of the History of Islam and the Islamic Peoples, Hebrew University, Jerusalem, and also Emeritus Professor of Arabic, University of Pennsylvania.

The documents Prof. Goitein will discuss Tuesday were discovered in a synagogue storeroom in Cairo and provide a relatively clear picture of the life style of the Jewish community of the Middle Ages in the midst of the Islamic culture. They are a source of economic, social, and religious history.

Prof. Goitein's talk will be the second of a six-lecture series sponsored by the Jewish Center on successive Tuesday evenings and open to all. Other speakers will be Mark R. Cohen, Lecturer in Near Eastern Studies at Princeton University, on "A 17th Century Plea for Toleration of Jews", October 29; Nachama Rezler, Lecturer in Hebrew Language and Literature at Princeton, on "Judea at the Time of Alexander Jannaeus as Viewed by Moshe Shamir", November 5; Susan Marcus, art historian, on "Art of the Jews in the Early Renaissance", November 12; and Alan Segal, Lecturer, Department of Religion, Princeton University, on "Early Rabbinic Views of the Rise of Christianity", November 19.

Classes on a variety of topics meet Tuesdays at 8 just before the lecture series. These and all other classes in the Jewish Center's adult education program are still open. Course descriptions and schedules are available at the Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street, 924-5493.

HOLIDAY BAZAAR SET

At St. Paul's. Parishoners of St. Paul's Church are completing plans for their third annual holiday bazaar and festival November 8 and 9. Friday, November 8, will be a father-daughter night, with a sneak preview of the bazaar set for Saturday, November 9, from 9 to 7.

The bazaar this year will include a mini auction, which can be previewed Friday, November 8, from 1 to 3.

A tea room will serve sandwiches, salads and other treats. Other attractions will include books for children, preserves, fruits and vegetables and baked goods.

The Saturday Sewing Circle has prepared needlepoint and crochet articles. Decoupage and crocheting will also be available.

MEN PLAN BAKE SALE

For Women's Group. Here's a twist on an old story: a bake sale to benefit the Women's Center of the Princeton Theological Seminary, sponsored by the Men's Auxiliary of the Center, will be held Monday beginning at 11:45 in the foyer of the Campus Center.

The Women's Center includes women students, faculty and staff and the wives of other Seminary personnel. The Men's Auxiliary, including some who are not married, are working with the Women's Center. Bob Larson and Ron Large are coordinators of the bake sale, which is called "The Bobby Riggs Memorial Bake Sale."

BULLETIN NOTES

The Episcopal Church Women of Trinity Church, Rocky Hill, will hold a rummage sale at the Parish Hall, Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, on Friday from 7 to 9 and Saturday from 10 to noon. Men's, women's, children's and infant's clothing will be on sale, along with books, toys and assorted items.

The Pennington Presbyterian Church's "Harvest Fair" will be Saturday beginning at 10. Events will include a silent auction, needle point and crafts booth, kiddie fair, pony rides, puppet show, baked goods booth, white elephant

OBITUARIES

Glenn L. Jepsen, 71, of 144 Patton Avenue, one of the world's leading paleontologists who was associated with Princeton University's Department of Geology for 42 years, died October 15 at home. He was responsible for some of the most significant research on the geology and biology of the age of mammals.

When he retired in June of 1971, Dr. Jepsen was Sinclair Professor of Vertebrate Paleontology and the Director of the University's Museum of Natural History.

His studies of the past ranged widely, from spending thousands of hours over a 25-year period on the analysis of the 50 million-year-old skeleton of a bat, to the discovery near Cody, Wyoming, of a site where ancient proto-Indian buffalo hunters 7,000 years ago regularly butchered their kills. He wrote of his researches frequently for scholarly journals and popular publications.

Throughout his career Professor Jepsen, a member of the Princeton Class of 1927, directed extensive field investigations in stratigraphy and paleontology in the Western States. The program resulted in the assembly of thousands of fossil mammals which cast new light on man's earliest relatives and their mammalian associates.

In 1962 Dr. Jepsen received the Addison Emery Verrill Medal, one of Yale University's highest honors for scientists. The citation called Dr. Jepsen a teacher whose "fundamental discoveries in a life-long quest for ancient mammals have profoundly added to the revelation of the strange and colorful vista of the beginning of the age of mammals."

Firestone Discovery. During excavations in 1948 for the Firestone Library on the Princeton campus, Dr. Jepsen discovered numerous specimens of 200-million-year-old coelocanth, an early form of the modern lungfish. They had lived in a lake formed in a large down-dropped trough of the earth's crust created preliminary to the splitting sale and entertainment. A pumpkin decorating contest will also be held. For information call 737-1221.

The Princeton Jewish Center will sponsor a panel discussion on casino gambling Sunday at 8 at the Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street. Mary Tanner and Kay McGrath of the League of Women Voters will participate.

The Rev. David Blackburn will be the guest preacher Sunday at 9:30 and 11 at the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck.

A pancake breakfast will be sponsored by the church school of the Mount Pisgah A. M. E. Church on Sunday, October 27, from 8 to 11. Donation is $2.

Temple Beth-El of Somerville will hold a ski-sled-and-skate swap Sunday from 11 to 3 at the Temple on Route 206. The rain date is October 27. For information call 201-722-0674.

away of North America from Europe.

In the late 1940s, Jepsen-directed expeditions attracted wide attention for their discovery near Cody, Wyoming, of an unsurpassed collection of "Yuma" artifacts. The site provided new clues to a 7,000-year-old buffalo hunter culture.

A native of Lead, South Dakota, Dr. Jepsen studied at the University of Michigan and was a part-time student as well as an instructor in English at the South Dakota School of Mines before he transferred to Princeton to complete his undergraduate studies. He was graduated with highest honors in Geology, and with Phi Beta Kappa standing after he had helped defray his university expenses by serving as an assistant in the geology museum.

The editors of the Nassau Herald in 1927 noted that Jepsen planned to study geology and then "engage in geological research." A fortnight after the senior annual had appeared, Jepsen was prospecting for fossils in the Wyoming Badlands. He returned to Princeton for his graduate training, receiving his doctorate in 1930, the year following his appointment as an instructor in the Department of Geology.

Stressed Mathematics. Advancing to Assistant Professorship in 1934 and six years later to an Associate Professorship, Dr. Jepsen in 1935 became Curator of Vertebrate Paleontology and assumed supervision of the extensive collection in Princeton's Natural History Museum.

In 1946 Professor Jepsen, who was known for his position that geologists of high competence need fundamental knowledge of mathematics and of the natural sciences together with experience in the humanistic and social areas of study, was designated the first incumbent of the Sinclair Professorship of Vertebrate Paleontology.

During Princeton's Bicentennial Year, 1946-47, Professor Jepsen directed the first international symposium ever held on Genetics, paleontology and Evolution, in which biologists and geologists outlined plans for cooperative research in evolution. He was a frequent contributor to the Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society and also to the columns of the Princeton Alumni Weekly.

Professor Jepsen was a member of the American Philosophical Society and a fellow of the American Associates for the Advancement of Science. He was a past president of the Society of Vertebrate Paleontology, fellow and former councilor of the Geological Society of America, and vice president of the Paleontological Society of America.

His marriage to Janet E. Mayo ended in divorce in 1953. He is survived by his former wife, Mrs. Eric Biddle, Arlington, Virginia; a brother, Marvin of Rapid City, South Dakota; and a daughter, Kittie A. Jepsen, Muskegon, Michigan.

A memorial service will be held Friday, October 25 at 11 in the University Chapel. Contributions may be made to Princeton University for the Jepsen Natural History Fund. Arrangements were under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

John M. Fenton, 73, of Winter Park, Florida, formerly of Pennington, died October 10 at his home. A longtime resident of Pennington, Mr. Fenton was active in New Jersey agricultural affairs for nearly 40 years.

A native of Amherst, Mass., he was a 1924 graduate of the University of Massachusetts. He worked for both the state and federal Departments of Agriculture, and was also secretary of the New Jersey Potato Marketing Agreement, an association of private growers.

At the time of his retirement in 1962 he was chief statistician of the New Jersey Crop Reporting Service, an agency of the U. S. Department of agriculture. He was married to the former Gertrude Maher of Trenton, who died in 1970.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Norman Champlain of Orlando, Florida; four sons, John M. Jr. of Princeton, Richard of Dade City, Florida, William G. of Hopewell and Robert of Orlando; one brother, James of Agawam, Mass.; and 13 grandchildren. The funeral was held in Winter Park.

James E. Whitlow, 86, of 97 Washington Street, Rocky Hill, died October 8 at Princeton Medical Center. He was a sheet metal worker and roofer for 44 years at Princeton University.

Born in Princeton, he was a lifelong resident of the Princeton area. He was a charter member and past commander of the Princeton American Legion; an exempt member of the Princeton Engine Company No. 1; and a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Janet Bohren Whitlow; and several nieces and nephews.

A service was held at the Mather Funeral Home, with the Rev. William L. Tucker, pastor emeritus of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Rocky Hill Cemetery.

Wolfgang Stechow, 78, of 6 Mercer Street, professor of art history at Oberlin College from 1940 to 1963, died October 12 at the Princeton Medical Center. He was a visiting professor in the art and archaeology department of Princeton University. He had earlier held similar positions at the University of Michigan, Williams, Smith, Vassar and Yale.

He is survived by his wife and three children. A memorial service will be held Saturday at Oberlin College, Ohio.

A TISKET, A TASKET: A handcrafts-loaded basket is what Jean Crosson and Tina deTuro carry as they head toward the holiday bazaar and festival of St. Paul's Church of Princeton. The annual event will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the church school, 216 Nassau Street.

A medium sized hump back trunk, the Beautifully refinished.

At long last, a rocking chair, not Boston,

A good sized oval mirror in gold

Once the Cottage Club, this fine home was moved to its present site on Library Place in 1905. Thoughtfully restored, the long windows, high ceilings and beautiful woodwork proudly proclaim its Victorian vintage. The red carpeted center hall opens on one side to a library with fireplace and shuttered windows and on the other to a large dining room with another fireplace. The living room overlooks the delightful garden. An exceptional kitchen, attractive powder room and spotless laundry complete the first floor. Five bedrooms, 3 1/2 baths.

PHARMACY TOPICS

by Joe Vitella
A variation on acupuncture has been used in Los Angeles to reduce the withdrawal symptoms of narcotics addicts. A surgical staple is clipped to the ear and, when necessary, the patient wiggles it himself.

Medical research isn't sure WHY, but Parkinson's disease is fading from view. Number of cases had soared from 1920 to 1960, are way down now. Virus epidemic early in the century may be a clue.

Doctors in New Orleans implanted a pacemaker to increase the heart-beat of an infant — just 18 hours old!

Shades of sonar! Doctors are using diagnostic ultrasound systems to determine the size, position and number of fetuses. Instruments send "beeps" into the body and listen for echoes. Patient is not subjected to drugs or X-rays.

Comparing the use of old-fashioned aspirin and the narcotic codeine for the pain of wisdom-tooth extractions, dental surgeons have found that aspirins were extremely effective, while codeine was no better than placebo sugar pills.

Old-fashioned aspirin? You bet! Just one of the non-prescription analgesics you'll find at Lawrenceville Pharmacy. If your doctor wants you to have something stronger, bring in your prescription.

Council Candidates Discuss Consolidation, Housing, Taxes, Buses

Apathy. Borough candidates despair over finding a solution.
"If voters would only realize that by not voting and not being interested in local politics, they are simply allowing the organized party machines to win. Local government is where the individual really can make a difference." Charles St. John (Rep.)
"A woman told me she wasn't going to vote. A local builder, she said, had paid off the zoning board. Well, I told her I was on that board and so is my opponent, Mr. St. John, and there has NEVER been even an attempted pay-off. Neither party in Princeton operates that way." Murray Medvin (Dem)

Consolidation. "The consolidation study committee asked all eight candidates not to make this a partisan election issue," reports Nelson van den Blink, Democratic candidate. She adds that all candidates regarded this request as somewhat naive. "I want to wait until the state legislature acts on taxes, and until the consolidation committee has made its final report. This will influence the way I feel." All the other candidates agree: Before declaring "for" or "against" consolidation, they want to see what the state does on taxes.

"Only about 25 percent of the voters mention it at all, and they are divided about fifty-fifty," Mrs. van den Blink has found.
"Most people consider it from an emotional point of view, and emotions are high," is Mr. St. John's experience. "A majority of Borough voters seem to be opposed, on an emotional basis. They look ahead to future Township growth and see themselves outvoted."

Majority opposed. "I honestly don't know: I want to wait until the tax decision," says Mr. Medvin. "I find the majority opposed, but the closer you get to the Township line, the more people seem to favor it — they have neighbors and friends in the Township."

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS: Nelson van den Blink and her running-mate, Murray Medvin, ride a loop bus to encourage others to do the same. Mrs. van den Blink is chairman of the Borough Board of Health. Mr. Medvin, a lawyer, is a member of the Borough Zoning Board.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS: Mary Stewart Allen and Charles St. John are Borough Council candidates on the Republican ticket. Mr. St. John is chairman of the Borough Zoning Board. Mrs. Allen was a co-founder — not THE founder, as recently stated — of the Mercer Hill Association, an organization of residents who live on streets in the Mercer area.

Mr. Medvin has found strong opposition to consolidation in the black community. At present, they feel close to municipal officials but they fear loss of political clout if consolidation occurs, he reports. "Being one street in a town of 13,000 is different from being one street in a town of 25,000, they say."

"I'm 'on the line' about consolidation," says Mary Stewart Allen, Republican candidate. "What form of government would we have? I fear loss of accountability and responsiveness. A manager system, for example, could be vulnerable to corruption. A ward system is said to insure we wouldn't lose our voice in government, but the town — and by that I mean the Borough — already has 'wards,' and a ward system could re-inforce them."

On the plus side, Mrs. Allen points out that fewer candidates might be running, and she cites the difficulty of getting good people to run for office.

Mr. St. John warms to this theme, also. "How much longer can volunteer government continue?" he asks.

"There is a limit to what we can ask of people and as the town grows, we stand to lose these volunteers."

Incidentally, the Borough-Township line bisects Mr. St. John's backyard.

Housing. Mrs. Allen has accused her Democratic opponents of playing politics by saying housing is their number-one concern.

"This implies to voters that they are going to be able to do something about it," she says. "The most we can do is work out some way to keep what low-middle-income housing we have, and see that projects we have started are carried through to completion."

"I reject the Republicans" defeatist attitude," Mr. Medvin replies. "We are committed to adding to Lloyd Terrace public housing off Spruce Street on the quarry site, and using the land for park space as well. If Green Acres and the housing bond issues pass, money would be available."

"Also, we support the Yedlin project and want to revive it—Borough people would be eligible to live there, although it's in the Township. We must write Federal officials and say that instead of guns, we want housing. With a defeatist attitude, places like Lloyd Terrace never would have been built."

Taxes. "The most important issue to voters is taxes," Mrs. van den Blink says. "Local taxes account for only 22.5 per cent of our tax bill, but even so we must husband carefully and keep these taxes down."

Mr. St. John also says taxes are a Number One problem and he links this to his concern for careful planning on the new sewer.

Bus. In recent interviews, all four candidates have talked more about Princeton's experimental bus system than about anything else. Voters favor it, they have found. The ones who don't, complain about the financial subsidy, but money isn't one of the complaints as a rule.

Also, all candidates say the system isn't working, and some other mix should be tried. Their proposed solutions usually combine some sort of fixed-route bus system, with a "demand" system like dial-a-ride, or taxis.

Mr. St. John suggests

THE EFFECT OF GAMMA-RAYS ON MAN-in-the MOON MARIGOLDS

• a Pulitzer Prize-winning drama by Paul Zindel

Princeton's McCarter Theatre Company opened its 1974-'75 season last Thursday with an impeccable production of Eugene O'Neill's first full-length play, "Beyond the Horizon." It is a theatrical event which no student of drama and no admirer of O'Neill will want to miss.

The new McCarter Producing Director, Michael Kahn, who continues as Artistic Director of the American Shakespeare Theatre at Stratford, Conn., and whose production of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" is an enormous success on Broadway, directed this O'Neill play himself, beautifully. It is hard to see how either the direction or the casting could have been better, and the acting is superb. The two settings by Robert U. Taylor — a hill overlooking the sea, and an early 1900s Connecticut farm house — are excitingly simple and appropriate, they contrast dramatically with one another, and the scene-changes are breathtakingly fast.

Everything About This Production — including Jane Greenwood's costumes and David F. Segal's lighting — is so brilliant, and the lustre of the author is so great, that one has difficulty seeing the basic play as a thing in itself. But there is some point in trying to do so, if only to explain why so much talent and so much emotionally charged material do not add up to a more convincing and moving experience for the audience.

The trouble is partly in the dialogue, which is sometimes flowery and sometimes wooden, not up to O'Neill at his later best; but it is mainly in the story. We have here a latently tubercular young man named Robert Mayo who has gone off to college and returned to the Mayo family's Connecticut farm with more taste and talent for poetry than for farming. A confessed romantic, he hungers to travel, to go "beyond the horizon" which beckoned him so irresistibly as a sickly boy, and he is about to get his chance to do this as the play opens: He will ship out tomorrow on a long voyage on his Uncle Dick's freighter.

But in the course of saying goodbye to Ruth, the farm girl next door, with whom he has long been secretly in love, Robert learns that Ruth is also in love with him. They kiss once, Ruth cries a bit, and Rob decides to forego the ocean voyage, stay home, marry Ruth, and become a farmer. This quick decision greatly upsets his beloved brother, Andy, who had meant to marry Ruth himself. So Andy, a stalwart fellow with a real feel for farming, makes a quick decision himself: He sails off with Uncle Dick in Rob's place.

Symmetry Piles on Symmetry. Rob is a flop as a farmer, and Andy is a success as a seaman. Life on the farm becomes so hard after Father Mayo dies that Ruth decides it was really Andy she loved. Rob's tuberculosis returns. Andy comes back well-heeled from the Argentine and brings in a great doctor, but it is too late, and Rob dies on the hilltop in Andy's arms.

Richard Backus is attractive and intelligent as Rob, and surely does as much as anyone could to make the character wholly convincing. The trouble is that O'Neill has "used" Rob to get his play going, and neither the character nor the play ever completely recovers from that bit of dramaturgic corner-cutting.

Rob's decision to become a farmer is simply too conspicuously convenient for the author. When one looks for a motive strong enough to produce that decision one finds it more readily in the author than in the character. When the hand of a playwright becomes so visible, his characters become puppet-like and lose their power to move us deeply.

The play sometimes rises above that bit of self-service on the author's part, but not sustainedly, because O'Neill by his lack of subtlety and lack of understatement keeps reminding us that this is not life but a play, and one from which he is determined to extract every last drop of drama. (A program note tells us this production "is based upon" O'Neill's first version of the play, never before performed. If for a later version O'Neill did some cutting, that version might have been more appropriate for a general audience.)

Actors Work Together. Edward J. Moore makes a likeable Andy, and his progression from aw-shucks farmer to waistcoated entrepreneur is dramatic if stagey. As Ruth, Maria Tucci gives a lovely and varied performance. The author has permitted her to underplay her despair in Act III and she is genuinely touching. Hugh Reilly is splendidly wrathful as Father Mayo, and Laurinda Barrett has beauty, dignity, and sensitiveness as Mother.

Paul Larson is amusing and seaworthy as the bachelor Captain Dick, Camila Ashland is properly obnoxious as Ruth's invalid mother, Sharon Chazin is amazingly good as Rob and Ruth's little daughter Mary, Michael Houlihan is a good exasperated farm hand, and Dan Seltzer does his usual wonders with the small role of Dr. Fawcett. Not only do these actors perform well, they perform well together, a credit to the director.

If this "Beyond the Horizon" falls a bit short as art, it is spectacularly good as artifact, showing us how a potentially fine playwright sometimes fumbles in the process of finding himself; how, in a sense, "Long Day's Journey into Night" was struggling to be born in this early work. It reveals the deep compassion for human suffering and the gift for theatricality, eventually brought under control, which made O'Neill's later works powerful.

This is an auspicious launching of Michael Kahn's Princeton career and we expect an exciting season. It is a luxury to be able to see seldom-performed plays like this and others on the McCarter schedule. The only troubling question is whether the luxury can be afforded. Given a 1,200-seat theater, the tightening purse strings of foundations and the financial pressures on the University, might not the McCarter company be wiser to offer equally fascinating plays of somewhat broader box-office appeal?

Those of us who most enjoy "special" plays like "Beyond the Horizon" might be willing to sacrifice some of our enjoyment in order to keep McCarter alive and healthy, looking ahead to the day when Princeton has a McCarter Theatre Complex including a smaller theater for "special" and experimental productions.

—William McCleery.

"IMAGES"
In Movie Series. Robert Altman's "Images" will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday, with two screenings: 7 and 9 p.m.

"Images" is a study of mental illness, with Susannah York portraying a young woman tormented by mysterious phone calls and by visions of a former lover who has been dead for years.

and you have truly impressive reasons for dining out at the Nassau Inn.
And to top it all — at the Nassau Inn in Princeton, you can pick from Each program in the group's repertoire is restricted to a certain historical period, and performed on the instruments for which the music was originally composed. For their McCarter concert, the Concentus Musicus will play works by Handel, Pergolesi, Vivaldi and Telemann.

The seven dances to be presented range from lyrical to humorous, and include the trio "On the Walk", by Candy Prior, guest artist from New York City. The other choreographers are Linda Kessler, Heidi Bunting, and Abigail Ewert Kaplan from The Dance Co-op; Sukey Cohen, who is a member of the modern dance company of the Princeton Regional Ballet, and Ms. Paskevskia.

"R.U.R."
From Community Players. A pioneer science-fantasy drama. Karel Capek's "R.U.R." will open the season for Princeton Community Players with playing dates set for November 15, 16 and 17 and 21, 22 and 23. Norman F. Washburne will direct.

This Sunday at 8:30, the Players will hold an open meeting, to which the public is invited. There will be improvisations, and Players officers will talk about plans for "R.U.R."

The Capek play was written in 1921 and first produced in this country in 1923, but its theme is quite contemporary: man's technological progress as a threat to mankind itself.

The initials "R.U.R." stand for "Rossum's Universal Robots," and in fact, this is the play that introduced the word "robot" into the English language.

The Players Sunday meeting will be held in 171 Broadmead, the former Princeton Country Day School building located between Princeton Avenue and Lake Carnegie.

"PINOCCHIO"
A Real Marionette. Two performances of the children's classic "Pinocchio", will be given at McCarter Theatre this Saturday, by the Vagabond Marionettes. Performance times are 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The magical story by Collodi about the puppet who comes to life, includes his encounter with the Blue Fairy man (who makes his nose grow as a threat to mankind itself) long when he lies) and with Lampwick, who turns him into a donkey and throws him into the sea, where he is swallowed by a whale. A live actor portrays the role of Gepetto, the wood carver, who initially fashions Pinocchio in his shop.

Both performances by the Vagabond Marionettes will be followed by a demonstration on the art of puppetry, which takes the audience behind the scenes into the workings of the marionette theatre and its artists.

Tickets for the Vagabond Marionettes are now available at the McCarter box office at $2.50 and $2.00. Special rates for groups of 20 and over: $1.50 per person.

GARDEN
Flesh Gordon. Produced by the publishers of Screw Magazine, this 78-minute softcore flick is a camp parody of the Flash Gordon serials of the 1930s. The humor is broad and juvenile, the sex soft and nude as Flesh copes with monsters and lechery on the bizarre planet Porno.

Though there is ample nudity and occasional simulation, it's all played for laughs — less a sex film than an intentionally campy underground item. On the planet Porno, Flesh encounters perils ranging from a sex-starved priestess to rapist robots, all punctuated by double entendres and smutty sight gags. An unexpected highlight of the film are some surprisingly good special effects.

The space ships, caverns and castles are bolstered by some excellent animation, including some bizarre bugmen and a predictably graphic creature called the penisours.

As Flesh, Jason Williams is properly blonde and stiff and delivers the silly dialogue with comic-book aplomb. As the luscious, put-upon heroine, Suzanne Fields is everything a serial blonde should be, especially in the paws of a monster who goes King Kong one step better by stripping his prey to a state of delectable nudity.

Using all the period trappings from the original serial, Flesh should catch the current nostalgia crest at just the right time. Perfect for college towns.

MONTGOMERY
The Mad Adventures of 'Rabbi' Jacob and a re-issue of Slench, the latter a dazzling criminal tour-de-force starring Sir Laurence Olivier and Michael Caine.

"The Mad Adventures of 'Rabbi' Jacob" is a slapstick French comedy of errors, a non-stop collection of frenetic sight gags and broad slapstick that has broken box-office records in France and several other European countries.

The story line is classically simple. A crotchety old French bigot is taken hostage by a North African revolutionary and forced to help him escape by stealing the Hassidic garb of two Parisian rabbis. Mistaken at Orly airport for the real Rabbi Jacob, who arrives at that moment to attend his nephew's Bar Mitzvah, the two imposters are trundled off to Paris's Jewish quarter where, among other wild complications, the fake Rabbi is actually expected to conduct the ceremony.

There are a slew of mistaken cross-confrontations

BOROUGH	TAX	RATE
1972	1973	1974

Princeton Borough Democrats have a thing about local taxes—they think they're high enough. During the last two years, under Democratic leadership, Princeton Borough Council has been fighting to hold the line on tax increases.

Since 1973, the Borough's municipal purpose tax rate has increased only 4%. Compare this modest rise in the cost of Borough municipal services to the 20% rise in the cost of everything else.

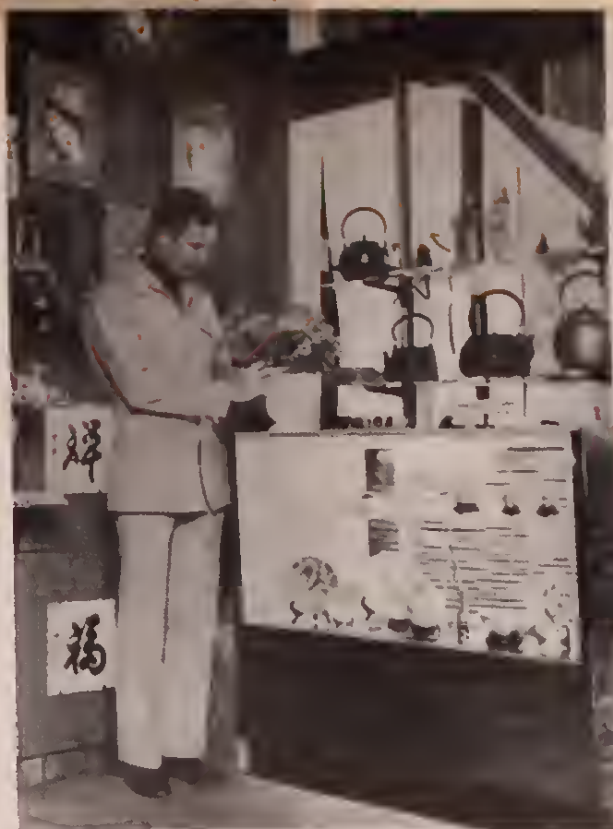

This is a good record. But now is no time to be complacent. We must continue to elect Borough Council members who can improve local government while keeping the tax rate under control.

ART In Princeton

JAPANESE ART SHOWN

Through November 2. The fourth annual exhibition and sale of Japanese folk arts and crafts, sponsored by the Craftsmen's Guild of Tokyo, will open Saturday and run through Saturday, November 2. The showing will be open to the public daily from 10 to 6 at Fair Acres Farm on Route 27 in Kingston, opposite the Franklin State Bank.

Founded six years ago by four elderly Japanese artisans, the Craftsman's Guild exhibits and sells items, new and old, that are representative of Japan's folk culture. Items at the Princeton exhibit include 300-year-old sumi ink and date from the wood and leather from the 1700's, samurai daggers, copper tea kettles, fans, silk kimonos and apothecary chests.

The Guild is also presenting the works of 12 craftsmen, plus the photography of T. S. Heineken. Some of the work, including paper mache sculpture from Miharu, wood carvings from Sasano, ceramics from Mashiko and umbrellas of rice paper from Gifu, has not been seen outside Japan until this year.

Another highlight of this year's showing are Tansu travel chests from Honshu Island, some dating from the late 18th century. Almost unknown outside Japan, these chests were intended to be functional rather than decorative. They are made of hand-forged iron hardware, with an interlocking construction that made nails unnecessary. Scrolls executed by obscure but talented artists will also be displayed. They are done in porcelain, boxes in early 1800s to present.

FOR CLOSET OR BATH... Hope Chest Has It. Have you ever tried to perfectly coordinate a closet or bathroom? If so, you know how difficult it can be to find the right blue wastebasket, a wicker shelf for that narrow wall, or sophisticated accents to set the room apart from other bathrooms.

Fortunately these problems can be a thing of the past for The Hope Chest at the Montgomery Shopping Center is the ultimate in coordination. Beginning with the closet you can match garment bags in various lengths, shoe bags, boxes with clear vinyl fronts, chests of drawers and hangers, priced from $3.98 to $39.98.

These closet accessories come in two new patterns -- Crowning Touch, a blue fleur de lis stripe on a white background, and Dots & Stripes, a diagonal pattern in four different color combinations with black, brown, gold and white currently being the most popular.

The Dots & Stripes theme can be carried over into the bathroom with a matching shower curtain, $8.98, and a set of Fieldcrest's Missoni towels which also feature dots and stripes in similar color combinations, $1.50 to $5.75 per piece. Completing the look is a Missoni Chevron bathroom rug, $14.

THE CO-ORDINATED LOOK: By laminating fabric onto plastic bathroom accessories, The Hope Chest can create an entirely co-ordinated look. Included in the choice of pieces are sided wastebasket, cup and toothbrush holder, hamper, soap dish and shower curtain. The multi-colored floral print shown here is one of several fabrics available, and can also be used to trim the towels.

Butcher Block. At this point it would be time to choose bathroom accessories and here The Hope Chest excels. There are shelves filled with wicker, ceramic and plastic in every color ranging from black and brown to lavender, orange and blue; and every possible item is included from soap dishes to guest towel holders to elaborate cabinets.

Frank Davis, The Hope Chest's owner, showed us the newest bathroom sets such as a hamper, shower curtain and wastebasket in a butcher block design. This set even includes a cushioned toilet seat, $21.98, and it is all shown with brown wicker accessories.

Another new set with a contemporary design has a brown and silver mirror-like hamper; while a third has the look of colonial wooden furniture even though it is actually metal.

Another idea is to spread your wallpaper throughout the bathroom by having The Hope Chest customize tissue boxes and toilet seats with it.

The most elegant accessories of all have been finished with hand-crafted gold and silver leaf which has then been antiqued and specially coated to protect it from water damage. Although these may seem expensive at first (for instance a double towel bar is $23.95 and a guest towel holder, $17.98), the weight and handsome look of these pieces make them worth the price.

This store is filled with extras such as small decorative mirrors; custom trimmed and monogrammed terrycloth sarongs for men and women, $17.98 and up; Healthometer accurate scales; black and white Velasquez and Degas nudes, $10 and up; and safety bars for the bathtub.

Although they are not for the bathroom, the personalized wooden kitchen signs and bar and beer signs are decorative and a perfect gift for any hard-to-please relative.

The Hope Chest is at the Montgomery Shopping Center, Routes 518 and 206, and is open from 10 to 6 Monday through Saturday, Thursday and Friday evening until 9.

NEW SPOT, MORE SPACE For Center Sports. Late in the summer Jack Petrone moved his Center Sports to a new location, still in the Princeton Shopping Center. The new store (the old Public Service building) is deceptively large, and it is a pleasure to see everything so clearly displayed.

When you think back to the old store, it is hard to believe that all the same lines and styles were there somewhere tucked away. Mr. Petrone told us that so far he has only increased quantities, but that he does plan to expand some lines. He has been listening to his customers' suggestions and by spring the store should be carrying more footwear and tennis dresses.

Fall is the season for school needs and Center Sports has gym shorts, T-shirts, sweat clothing, and socks in a variety of colors. Gym bags are here, too, in Hun, Princeton High and West Windsor High colors, approximately $6.95, and for the little guys the bags come marked with the NFL team names and colors.

Sneakers are essential and most boys prefer the Converse all stars which come in gold, red, green and two blues, or

It's New to Us

Puma's basket or Clyde models which are available in green and white or blue and white.

Soccer Interest Up. Despite the World Series, most boys are actively involved in fall sports. With the mini-leagues soccer interest has mushroomed, and Center Sports has balls (imports and ones by Sportcraft and Puma) and special shoes such as the Puma rapid, apollo or pele, $15 to $30.

Football probably remains the most popular sport, and Mr. Petrone has stocked balls in youth and adult sizes priced from $12.95 to the Wilson official NFL pro-ball at $31.95. If you need a ball for a youngster who is still apt to leave it outside or at a friend's house, there is a rubber voet ball made of nylon that can't be hurt by sitting on the wet grass.

In addition there are football shoes by Hyde, Puma and Magnus, $19 to $25 depending on the leather, and children's helmets marked with the NFL insignias, $8.95.

The requests for hockey equipment have already started and Center Sports is about to display its stock which includes Hyde (now called Spotbilt) and Raleigh skates, $15.95 to $50, and Northland and Sherwood sticks, $2 to $8.95.

Paddle Season. With the Jadwin complex, the Y's facilities and Community Park, Princeton has a large interest in racket sports. We saw equipment for platform tennis, including Dick Squire's book on the subject; paddle ball (played against a wall instead of over a net); squash; and tennis rackets, balls and men's clothing for indoor advocates.

It is hard to mention everything we saw at Center Sports, but if it concerns sports, chances are that Jack Petrone has it. Mr. Petrone, who is also a Township Police Sergeant, operates the store with his wife and five sons. They are all knowledgeable about sports and extremely helpful when you're searching for your husband or son's special request.

Just to quickly mention a few more items. We saw Swiss army knives, $4.25 to $28.95 and they have a lifetime guarantee; exercise mats; warm-up suits for jogging; riding apparel; a full line of Flarico supporters; camping supplies; and jackets from nylon shells to quilted ski parkas.

DEMOCRATS TO SPEAK

In Montgomery, an inside view of local government will be the topic at the meeting of the Montgomery Democratic Club next Thursday at 8 p.m. The meeting will be held at the First National Bank of Central Jersey, Rocky Hill. Speakers will be the two Democratic candidates for Montgomery Township Committee and the two Democratic candidates for Freeholder in Somerset County.

William Pauley, incumbent Township Committeeman running for another term, will speak on the subject, "Township in Transition," calling attention to the effects to be expected from new zoning, highway development, a full-time health officer, and increased police protection. Eric Perkins, a first-time candidate for Township Committee, will describe "The Year Ahead."

The two Democratic candidates for Freeholder will focus their attention on County problems with emphasis on the relation to Montgomery Township. Elaine Goldsmith will explain the duties and responsibilities of a Freeholder and Peter Krochta will discuss what he feels

Freeholders can do for Montgomery Township.

The meeting is open to the public and is designed to give Montgomery voters an insight into the structure, procedures, and responsibilities of local government together with the plans and proposals of the candidates. There will be opportunity for questions at the close of the program followed by a social hour with refreshments.

GOT A NEW BABY?

Join "Family" Group. Life

with a new baby can be complex - full of joy and satisfaction but also change and stress says Family Service, and the agency has formed a group whose members will discuss this aspect of family life.

"Becoming a Family" is for persons with new, young or forthcoming families. There will be group discussion of the emotional experience of becoming a parent, of the impact of the baby or young child on the adult self or couple relationships, and of family interaction. The purpose is to provide an opportunity for parents to share experiences, benefit from the group and find ways of enriching the early-family aspect of their lives.

Sessions will be led by Carolyn W. Treadway, family counselor and specialist in pregnancy-postpartum counseling, and mother of three young children. The group will meet for six Monday evenings from October 28 through December 2, 8:15-10 p.m. at the Princeton offices of Family Service, 120 John Street. Early registration is suggested as group size will be limited. Further details may be obtained by calling Family Service, 924-2098.

COURSE SCHEDULED

On Bicycle Repair. The Bicycle Committee of the West Windsor Recreation Commission will sponsor a bicycle maintenance and repair course for residents.

The program has been designed as an introductory, workshop-type course.

The committee feels that it is important for bicycle owners to know how to maintain their vehicles as well as how to repair them. Therefore, the workshops are designed to cover total bicycle care. The instruction will also enable participants to learn how to care for their own bicycles.

Among the facets of bicycle care to be covered are brake system, lubrication, flat tires, hearing overhaul and adjustment, cables, fitting and riding techniques. Because of

EXHIBITION, SALE SET

By Art Coalition. On Saturday and Sunday, October 19 and 20, the Art Coalition will hold its annual exhibition and sale at the home of Till Miller, 518 Cherry Valley Road.

From last year's beginnings with 10 artists and artisans the Art Coalition has doubled in size and added several new media.

Now they include photography by Everett Scott and Jim McDonald, sculpture by Jim and Anthony Colavita, and Alan Schwartz, ceramics by Martha Wright and Gary Kreger, graphics by Anne Demarais and Gary Kreger, textiles by Chrys Eckert, Joan Wood and Joan Wortis, plants by Till Miller, paintings by Michael Smith, jewelry by Betty Ruth Curtiss, Arden Kalb and Roger Thompson, collage by Eileen Hohmuth, drawings by Judi Stitzer, woodwork by Ferdinand Fournies, and baked goods by Valerie Meluskey.

This year's exhibition will also feature contemporary music composed and performed by Steve Greenberg, Bob Littman and George Pultz. The exhibition is open to the public from 1-6 p.m. and the musicians are scheduled to perform at 2 and 4 p.m. each day.

The Art Coalition was formed by cooperative effort to give an opportunity to young artists and artisans of the area for the display and sale of their work. The success of the original show last year has attracted wide interest as the doubling of the membership indicates.

The range of talents displayed and the easy informality of their exhibitions promises to set a new tone for the celebration of art in the years to come.

PAINTINGS ON VIEW

At NJ National Bank. An exhibition of paintings and prints by Edith Kogan is presently on display at the New Jersey National Bank of Princeton.

Ms. Kogan studied in Paris with William Hayter and Day Schnabel and is presently on the faculty of the Princeton Art Association. The exhibit is open to all area residents during banking hours: Monday through Thursday 9-4, Friday 8-7, and Saturday 9-12.

An exhibition of paintings by Nancy O'Connor will open at the New Jersey National Bank of Princeton on October 18, 1974.

ARTIST-ENGINEER

In Hospital Exhibit. "Threadometrics", a new art form practiced by James Potter of Kendall Park, will be displayed in the main lobby of The Medical Center at Princeton this Sunday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Mr. Potter is an engineer who retired from that profession after he suffered a heart attack. His family tried to interest him in various projects, including a "string art" kit which did not interest him at first. But using his background in math, geometry and design, he began designing intricate geometric patterns worked out in threads.

The result of Mr. Potter's development from experimental craftsman to artist, has been acceptance in juried art shows including those sponsored by the Westfield Art Association and the Guild of Creative Art in Shrewsbury. One composition was awarded second prize in the mixed media category by the Franklin Arts Council.

A member of the Princeton Art Association, Mr. Potter has exhibited his work throughout the east. Selections from the exhibit will remain on display in the hospital Coffee Shop. The public is cordially invited to the reception on October 20th to meet Mr. Potter and to view his work.

PLAYHOUSE

That's Entertainment. A spectacular, rousing compilation of the best from more than 100 MGM musicals, "That's Entertainment" more than lives up to its title.

The dances and extravagant productions span the MGM musical from 1929's Broadway Melody up through the sophisticated veneer of Gigi in 1958. They are introduced by an all-star cast of narrators that includes Fred Astaire, Bing Crosby, Gene Kelly, Peter Lawford, Liza Minelli, Donald O'Connor, Debbie Reynolds, Mickey Rooney, Frank Sinatra, James Stewart and Elizabeth Taylor. Old Blue eyes kicks things off, outlining the early days of the Metro musicals, highlighted by Eleanor Powell's remarkable tapping in "Born to Dance."

Gene Kelly graciously chronicles Fred Astaire's silky dancing prowess from his first film, "Dancing Lady" in 1933. Later on, Astaire returns the favor, detailing Kelly's range of talents from the astonishing acrobatics of "The Pirate" to the easeful joy of the title number of "Singing in the Rain," the latter one of the most satisfying dance sequences ever put on film.

Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney surface a lot and Donald O'Connor introduces the camp wonders of Esther Williams' aquatic extravaganzas, centering on the absurdly overblown waterworks of "Million Dollar Mermaid." A must for anyone who ever thrilled watching Kelly and Sinatra work their magic together.

Deer on Rosedale Road.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
We live on Rosedale Road across from ETS near Carter Road. Last Thursday night, four deer were hit by an automobile in front of our house. The skid marks on the road from the car stopped just a few feet from a telephone pole.

We ran out to the road to see what had happened and called the police. My husband and a neighbor went out on the road with flashlights to flag down other cars. Two deer were dead and lying on the roadway, one dragged herself into the shrubbery to die, and a small, puppy-sized deer was alive, but out on the roadway. Not only would the cars not slow down—my neighbor was almost hit twice by cars which came right up to him and squealed on their brakes. Most appalling, though, was the automobile who slammed into the small already-injured deer and dragged him many feet before speeding off into the night.

As we have seen many deer hit in front of our home, I called the Game Warden, Mr. Burns, who was most cooperative, and I also talked to a biologist in that office, who was also helpful. It seems that this part of Rosedale Road has been a crossing for these deer since before the road was built, and we've been told that there really isn't much we can do to remedy this situation. We are trying to get some "deer crossing" signs erected to alert people to the danger to themselves, their automobiles, and the deer.

In the meantime, I would like to appeal to everyone using Rosedale Road to be particularly watchful for deer crossing the road down near Carter.

Help for a Horse.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
On Saturday my horse fell into a manhole, I was riding him when he fell. His left back leg was in all the way to his belly.

My father and my best friend, Lisa, ran out to help. Right away our neighbor Mr. Arnott, and a guest Mr. Coale came.

Mr. Coale ran into the house, called the Township police and the rescue squad. I then called the vet. He didn't come until Lisa called him. The vet knew just what to do. My horse was lifted out by all our neighbors, some of whom we didn't even know.

I am 13 and very lucky to have all the town's help. Lisa and I just want to thank you for everything. The horse is fine, but Lisa was kicked in the foot, I was kicked in the arm.

Statement on ETS Is False.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
TOWN TOPICS reports (October 10) that a recent article in New York Magazine quoted me as having said that "there is one chance in six a student who scored 600 on the (SAT) one day could on the next day score 500 or 700." The magazine -- and TOWN TOPICS quotes from it -- goes on to say that these are odds which one Ivy League admissions officer says are "mind-boggling when you consider that the 700 kid will get into schools where the 500 kid is doomed."

The statement (incorrectly) attributed to me is garbled and false. What is mind-boggling -- in addition to the astonishing quotation from the admissions officer who requires his applicants to take a test whose results he obviously distrusts -- is that this newspaper, which represents itself as a fair, accurate, and conscientious reporter, would parrot this nonsense without taking the trouble to check on the facts. A three-minute telephone call to an office less than five miles away would have succeeded in clearing up the confusion. Regrettably, TOWN TOPICS did not feel that this was necessary.

Consolidation Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
On Wednesday, October 2, a hearing was held at the Princeton Borough Hall, on consolidation of the Borough and the Township. Its purpose was said to be to listen to citizens and taxpayers, receive suggestions, and answer questions on the subject of consolidation.

NOTICE

Letters to TOWN TOPICS Mailbox should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Letters longer than 500 words may be edited or omitted entirely at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may also be rejected.

About 30 persons were in the audience and about a dozen were behind the bench, facing the audience. Most of those in the audience were from the Township. They, of course, were strongly in favor of consolidation.

Although the Joint Consolidation Study Committee had been in existence for 10 months or more, it apparently had very little real information on the subject. Its attitude led to the belief that it was a device created by the two mayors to serve as a means of fomenting sentiment in favor of consolidation and the consequent further increase in political spending. Several indicated the expectation that consolidation would just lead to more political spending, as it had in the case of the Regional School Board. It was pointed out from the audience that the consolidation of the schools had already resulted in a 500 per cent increase in expenditures on the schools, despite the decline in the number of students.

Many of those present were concerned about the proposed bond issue which proposes an extra expenditure of up to four million dollars to repair damages to the high school that incompetent management did not prevent. There were no satisfactory answers to questions about the debt limit of the Township and the Borough.

With respect to the possibility of an improvement in services as a result of consolidation, there was only conjecture. The few mentioned principally involved the convenience of bureaucrats on the pay roll.

Nothing was said about reducing expenditures.

There was some double talk about the tax aspect of the problem. However, there was no answer to the obvious fact that this was the crux of the whole thing. It was clear that the main objective was to load more of the taxes of the Township onto the taxpayers of the Borough.

The striking thing about the whole proceeding was that practically all of those present were totally oblivious to the fact that consolidation would be one more item adding to the inflation now raging on every hand. Apparently, everyone was thinking the way most people in the country think—that something must be done to stop inflation, provided it is not done to them.

This inflation, of course, is primarily the result of the pyramiding government to the point where it now costs more than three times what the economy can afford to pay. We have an economy in liquidation, but no one wanted to face the real conclusive fact. It is that the hearing developed nothing to indicate that there was one sound reason for consolidation of the Borough and Township.

It might be nice but would not be necessary. It was also revealed that the people interested in consolidation are just those who have an ax to grind—like the officials and the employees of the two entities, and a few who hope their taxes may be reduced. The superficial nature of the Committee and its work was indicated by the fact that it had no definite information of the kind which is always necessary as the beginning point if such an inquiry is to be made.

That was the nature and extent of the existing consolidations as well as the costs and results thereof—the schools, the Planning Board, et al. None involved running the governmental agencies of the Borough and the Township apparently dare to say anything about the colossal mess represented by our consolidated schools.

When the question was raised as to whether the University and the Seminary are now paying their fair

"Clean-up Week" in the Township, will begin next Monday, October 21, and will continue through Friday, October 25, by Election Districts. All trash must be placed at curbside by 8 a.m. and must be no larger than one man can carry. Collection schedule is as follows:

October 21, Monday	Districts 1 and 4
22, Tuesday	5-6-10
23, Wednesday	3-9-12
24, Thursday	2-11
25, Friday	7-9-13

Branches and twigs must be tied in bundles not more than 12" in diameter with rope or twine (no wires). Larger branches should be neatly stacked in short lengths. Leaves and lawn debris will be collected in plastic bags or cartons, not by vacuum machine.

Large items, such as old washing machines, refrigerators or furniture may also be placed at curbside for pick-up.

At 4:30 p.m. each day the streets within each election district collected will be patrolled and notation made of streets completely cleared. Residents may call the Engineering Department at 921-7077 for further information.

shares of the cost of operating the Borough and the Township, there was a loud silence.

Everything about the project was nebulous, and the principal excuse given was that everything depends on whether the Legislature does something about increasing taxes. The Committee can only stand and wait.

Mr. Sayen said that Lane, former U. S. District Court Judge and now general counsel for Johnson and Johnson, will also be honored guest for the affair which opens with a 6 p.m. cash bar followed by dinner at 7.

MEETING SITE CHANGED

By School Board. The West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School Board has approved rotating its regular monthly public meetings on a trial basis among the district's schools during the next four months. The board previously held all of its monthly meetings in the library of the Maurice Hawk School. It is anticipated that this change will provide a convenience to those residents who live in other school areas.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday and will be held at the Dutch Neck School. In November, the board will meet at the high school. The December meeting will be held at the Plainsboro School on December 17. The board will return to the Maurice Hawk School on Tuesday, January 28.

COUNSELORS TO ATTEND

Psychotherapy Meeting. Paul Kurland, executive director of Family Service, along with members of the family counseling staff from both the Princeton and Hightstown offices, will attend the annual Regional Institute and Conference of the Eastern Group Psychotherapy Society. Members of the staff attending from Princeton are Elaine Fox and Linda Meisel. Marilyn Brown will attend from the Hightstown office.

The Institute will be held in New York from Friday, November 15, through Sunday, November 17. It will consist of workshops in various group psychotherapy techniques ranging from the traditional psychoanalytic approach to the more recent approaches such as gestalt, bio-energetic, transitional analysis and behavior modification.

Family Service has recently expanded its individual and family counseling services to include group counseling. It is a member agency of the Princeton Area United Community Fund.

Orson Welles' Broadcast 1938 to Receive Reverse Treatment When RCA-Built "Viking Lander" Arrives on Mars in July '76

Thirty-six years ago this month, the now famous radio broadcast of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds" rang out the news that the earth was being overrun by Martian invaders, who supposedly had landed at Grovers Mills, near Princeton Junction. The broadcast, delivered in ominous oratory by Orson Welles, triggered near panic in the streets of New York and other cities.

The science-fiction thriller was all too real for millions of radio listeners, many of whom believed Martians had truly come to take over earth.

On July 4, 1976, Martians are scheduled to have their turn to sound the alarm of an interplanetary intruder. Only this time it will be the real thing. A NASA unmanned laboratory called the Viking lander, using components developed by RCA's Princeton laboratories, is scheduled to touch down on the surface of Mars near the mouth of a 4-mile deep gorge called Chryse.

Before being launched, the lander will have been sterilized for at least 40 hours at temperatures of 250 degrees

More On Home Protection - Locks!

Township police offer this information about locks as part of a series designed to inform residents how they can help protect themselves against burglary, robbery, larceny and fraud.

First, if you have locks, use them! If you don't, get them! And if you do not have good locks, change them!

Essentials to installing a safe door are a strong door frame, sturdy hinges, chain latch, peep hole and, most important, a double deadbolt cylinder lock with at least a one-inch throw bolt. The key in knob lock is one of the most common in use today. It is effective only, police warn, when used with a deadbolt and plunger mechanism.

In addition, all sliding glass doors should have door pins or a door bar to keep the door from being opened if it is forced. All windows should have locks which require keys to open them. Basement windows should contain burglar resistant glass. Windows near fire escapes require added protection.

"The basic concept of crime prevention today," says Chief Frederick Porter, "is the emerging strategy of 'citizen involvement' . . . bringing citizens together to cooperate with police in an effort to reduce criminal acts through preventive measures.

"People have to wake up and educate themselves," said Chief Porter. "It's no longer something police can do alone."

Fahrenheit to eliminate any possibility of infecting Mars with biological contaminants from earth. The lander will carry a variety of scientific instruments designed to ascertain signs of biological life as it exists or may have once existed on Mars.

It will take stereo, color, infrared and panoramic pictures, burrow into the Martian surface with a mechanical claw, and chemically analyze soil samples and surface material. In addition, other sophisticated sensors will analyze the atmosphere, measure pressure, temperature, wind velocity and quake activity.

Long-Distance Call. The task of transmitting this voluminous data 225 million miles back to earth will belong to a sophisticated $25 million communications system designed and built by RCA's Astro-Electronics Division in Princeton for the prime contractor, Martin Marietta Aerospace.

Completing its 11-month, 460 million mile journey, the Viking spaceship, consisting of a lander and orbiter, will close in on Mars and assume an elliptical orbit around the planet. After the spacecraft has reconnoitered the surface of Mars, inspected potential landing sites, and verified the suitability of the prime landing site, the lander will separate from the mother ship, the Orbiter, and begin its descent to the surface.

The RCA-built communications subsystem has the dual capability of beaming directly to earth over a direct link or relaying information via the Orbiter circling Mars. Both the Orbiter and the Lander will conduct simultaneous scientific investigations of the martian atmosphere and the surface.

During its more than six-hour descent, the Lander will gather information on the pressure, temperature density and composition of the Martian atmosphere, radioing this data to the Orbiter via the ultra-high frequency (UHF) communications link. It provides for rapid, high volume transmission of scientific data.

On-Board Computer. Parachutes and a propulsion system will enable the lander to touch down softly on Mars. Once it is on the surface, an on-board computer will calculate the alignment of the S-band antenna to point it directly toward earth. This narrow-beam steerable antenna must be pointed directly toward earth for high data rate transmission. Since Mars rotates on its axis similar to earth, the lander's S-band antennas must be continuously adjusted during each transmission period.

The antenna which will receive command and control signals from huge 210-foot dishes back on earth is capable of being held in a man's hand. It weighs only a few ounces and looks like an hibachi cooking grill. Because of its broad-beam coverage, it does not have to be pointed directly at the earth transmitters to receive signals.

Another antenna is slightly larger, about 18-inches high, and weighs four pounds. This antenna, which resembles a tree with tin cans hanging from it, radios information to the orbiter for relay to earth. The third, is more traditional-looking, with a 30-inch parabolic dish.

The Lander communications system will rely

LOS ANGELES	70¢	$1.40	$3.55
CHICAGO	50¢	$1.10	$2.40
MIAMI	65¢	$1.20	$2.65

Just think. By asking an operator's assistance, a three-minute weekend call to L.A. will be twice as much as if you dialed it yourself. And calling person-to-person is over five times more costly. For example:

You want to say "Happy Birthday" to Aunt Mary in Los Angeles, but you can't see spending the person-to-person premium rate. And you don't want to call collect, or charge it, or make it a third number billed call, or a coin phone call (all of which cost extra because they involve an operator). So, you take the least expensive option of all: get the area code from the front of your phone book and dial Aunt Mary yourself.

Remember, the next time you're calling people dear and far, look over all your options. Then make the call that makes the most sense to you.

We want you to get the most out of your phone service.

Communications Gap. Because of temperature extremes and power limitations, the lander communications system will be able to broadcast data for only a few hours each day.

Most of the lander's functions have been programmed to occur automatically without being commanded from earth. This is because of the distance involved and the 20-minute travel time it takes for radio signals to leap the 225-million-mile gap between Earth and Mars. Forty minutes would elapse before a response to a command could be acknowledged and received back on earth.

The rugged Lander communications system will have to survive temperatures ranging from about 70 degrees Fahrenheit in daytime to 100 degrees below zero at night.

Because, he has clearly defined the goals he seeks in Congress—at least a $10 billion reduction in defense spending to finance programs that put our people back to work—bold commitment to lower our consumption of energy—tax reform with just treatment for low and middle income families—re-organization and revitalization of Congress.

Because, he speaks out courageously, as he did this week in opposing the confirmation of Rockefeller—as he did one year ago, in pressing for the removal of Nixon.

Because, he operates in politics as he operates in life—with a campaign open and on the record.

Because his energies are devoted to political action that is real, not rhetorical, he has the support of hundreds of people of all ages and stages. They've put their hope, intellect, time and money behind his candidacy—you are very welcome to join the effort.

Here's a surprising World Series record. . . The man who owned the record for many years for pitching the most consecutive shutout innings in World Series games was, of all people, Babe Ruth! . . . Yes, Babe Ruth was a pitcher in the early years of his career and he pitched in four World Series games, hurling 29 and two thirds consecutive shutout innings, a record that lasted 43 years till Whitey Ford surpassed it in 1961. . . Isn't it strange that the great slugger, Babe Ruth, should set a World Series pitching record.

Do most World Series end after four games, five games, six games or seven games? . . . In the history of the World Series, more have gone seven games than any other length. . . In fact over 42 per cent of all Series have gone seven games. . . Only 14 per cent of all World Series have been over in four-game sweeps. . . 25 per cent have ended after five games, and 19 per cent have ended after six games.

Here's a football oddity. . . Pro football player George Blanda is now older than 9 of the current head coaches in the National Football League!

Casciola Tears Up Calendar as Tigers' Rebuilding Program Clicks Far Ahead of Schedule with Victory over Dartmouth

A Princeton football team which Coach Bob Casciola has rebuilt possibly as much as a year ahead of schedule will play its final non-Ivy game of the season Saturday, preparatory to seeing whether its early renaissance will lead to a first-division berth in the final league standings. Colgate, whose 37-21 loss to the Tigers last fall saved the Orange and Black from its first winless season in 104 years, will provide the opposition in Palmer Stadium at 1:30.

While the sky-high Princetonians are unlikely to be far enough along the road to recovery to fall prey to over-confidence, it is just as well for them that Saturday's foe achieved a surprising upset last week. After having gotten itself thoroughly belted around by Lehigh, Cornell and Yale, Colgate scored a surprising 21-16 decision over a well-regarded Holy Cross team which has defeated Brown and Dartmouth decisively while losing to Harvard.

Chief architect of the Red Raiders' ambush of Holy Cross was a Colgate freshman, Pat Healy, who, statistically, at least, is about as good a freshman ball carrier as there is in the nation. In his first four games of college football, he has run for 358 yards, scored six touchdowns and is averaging better than six yards every time he gets the ball. Against Holy Cross, he ran for two TDs and caught a 32-yard pass in the end zone to win the ball game.

Bruce Basile, a junior who played against the Tigers a year ago when the veteran Tom Parr was sidelined with an injury, directs the Colgate wishbone. He runs twice for every time he throws, and is the team's leader in total of offense. Senior John Anderson is the other principal ball carrier in the potentially explosive Colgate offense, which has averaged some 350 yards per game.

HIS NAME REALLY ISN'T "SACK:" Tom Schalch (78) bursts in on Dartmouth quarterback Tom Snickenberger to throw him for eight-yard loss late in fourth quarter. Key play in series forced Green to yield ball on downs, preserving Princeton's 14-7 triumph. Tiger captain was credited with three sacks and 15 total tackles. (Bob Matthews Photo)

QUICK LOOK AT COLGATE

OFFENSE: Stresses running over passing. Has been successful in yardage gained but not always in points scored.

DEFENSE: A perennial Colgate problem. Has yielded average of 30 points in four games and figures to be outmatched by maturing Princeton offense

CHIEF ASSET: Potential of strong ground game built around running of freshman Pat Healy

CHIEF PROBLEM: Inexperience created by heavy graduation losses. Rebuilding offense unable to match points allowed by defense which lost numerous starters.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Wishbone.

Keys to the mediocre Colgate 1-3 mark are two: 18 lost fumbles generated by the difficult wishbone attack, which requires more split-second ball-handling skill than any offense colleges use; and defensive shortcomings traceable to heavy graduation losses. The visitors go with one veteran among their front four, good strength in linebacking but more newcomers in the secondary. Walt Snickenberger had the best day of his career against Colgate last October, running for 218 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Outcome of this year's game will hinge on the degree of pressure that Snick and Ron Beible can put on the visitors' defense, and on the ability of Princeton's defensive unit to contain Healy and the wishbone.

SPORTS

In Princeton

THE BIG ONE...

Doesn't Get Away. After the way that Princeton's defense matured so rapidly in allowing but a single touchdown to Rutgers and Columbia, coupled with Dartmouth's inability to do more than boot a lone field goal in losing to Massachusetts and Holy Cross, it was possible to anticipate a victory for the Tigers over the Green. Translating such potential into an achievement that went into the record book against the defending Ivy champions on their own field was, however, a task of extreme magnitude for personnel still aching from the pain of a 1-8 season.

That Coach Bob Casciola's team did so in a tight, low-scoring ball game, creating its own break on a spectacular defensive play and then capitalizing on it to score the odd touchdown in three, was vastly to its credit. The 14-7 final and the statistics show that the game was virtually even, but throughout much of the afternoon it was these young Princetonians who were in charge—scoring first and last, and then assuring the victory by taking the ball away from the 1973 champions deep in their own territory when the clock showed there was still sufficient time for the Green to alter the final outcome.

Defense the Story. This 1974 Tiger attack is still unsure of itself, despite the presence of a running back who has averaged 115 yards per game and a quarterback who appears to be on the verge of giving Princeton the first take-charge offense it has had in five long years. Given two big chances to score Saturday, it converted on both, but both were created by Dartmouth fumbles that the defense caused by break-throughs well behind the line of scrimmage.

To send the Tigers into the locker room at the half on the long end of a 7-0 score—a tremendous psychological lift for a young team playing away from home—the defense ground a 65-yard drive by the home team to a halt on the 2-yard line. Then, after yielding the tying TD on a 79-yard march in the third quarter, it first got the ball back by forcing another Dartmouth fumble on the losers' 15, watched the offense raise the precarious margin to 14-7 and then went out and nailed down the victory by holding the desperate Green to no gain in four downs after sophomore Mike Stein's punt had carried better than 50 yards into the end zone.

The Tiger tackles on the defensive platoon, Captain Tom Schalech and Dale Spiegel, played as fine a game as any two Orange and Black linemen have since the days of Paul Savidge and Stas Maliszewski a decade ago. They were both major contributors to the five sacks of Dartmouth quarterback Tom Snickenberger and were constantly harrassing him throughout the game.

Coverage of Dartmouth receivers by the secondary was often sufficiently glue-like that Snickenberger had to run when he would have preferred to throw. On the day, he was 8 for 13, 72 yards and one TD, but he lost seven yards in 19 carries and there were four costly fumbles—the two that got away resulting in Princeton touchdowns.

In contrast, Princeton's Snickenberger gained an even 100 yards, upping his three-game total of 345, and scored the winning touchdown. The family rivalry in Ivy League play thus ends at 1-all—both are seniors, Walt entering college a year earlier but sitting out the 1972 season.

Princeton's first score came on a nine-play, 34-yard drive on which Snick carried six times and was the target on both passes that Beible threw before Beible went back to pass from the 5, saw no receiver open and ran straight up the middle for the score. It was the first time since 1969 that Princeton had held a lead over Dartmouth.

The second TD was nearly lost when a pitchout for Snick sailed all the way from the Dartmouth 15 back to the 28, where the Tiger halfback recovered. Beible calmly erased the second and 23 crisis by completing a 14-yarder to split end Kevin Gropp and another to tight end Bob Harding that made it fourth and one on the 6. Snick got the first down with a yard to spare and two plays later went through the middle for the TD that made believers in Princeton of the other seven Ivies for 1974—not some time for which calendars have not yet been printed.

PHS Faces Unbeaten Hightstown Following 24-16 Loss to Lawrence

There are two reasons why Princeton High School lost its first game of the season last week to unbeaten Lawrence—and a probable shot at the Mercer County "B" Division Championship. There names are Gene Whitacre and Karl Thomas.

Whitacre, who has to be one of the finest running fullbacks in the area, rushed for two touchdowns and 113 yards in 17 carries. The elusive Thomas scored the Cardinals' third touchdown on a 9-yard scamper as he ran for 129 yards in 18 carries—double Princeton's total ground yardage of 65 yards in 29 rushes. The final score, Lawrence 24, PHS 16.

That Lawrence was able to rush for more than 300 total yards was due in large part to its offensive line which continually was able to trap Princeton's interior linemen. "They had us so confused, our kids don't know whether they were coming or going," said PHS coach Jim Beachell after the game.

"Our offensive line got tired, and they capitalized on our mistakes," he said. "That did it." Beachell added that the Cardinals displayed a well-balanced attack... and that's what wins ball games."

FIRST PLAY...40 YARDS: On Princeton High's first play from scrimmage against Lawrence, PHS back Robert Wood scampered from his 22 to the Cardinals' 38-yard line to help set up a field goal. Lawrence won its 21st, however, 24-16.

had to settle for the field goal.

The win was Lawrence's 21st in a row—the longest string in the state—and Princeton's first loss in three games. Next, the Little Tigers will again face an unbeaten team when they play host Saturday morning to Hightstown. The Rams, following their 28-20 victory over St. Anthony last week, are 3-0.

Kickoff will be 11 a.m. Both teams are in the County "B" Division and PHS is faced with must win just to keep its title hopes alive.

PHS Scores First. Princeton scored first against Lawrence—a 30-yard field goal by Steve Tomlinson with 6:07 left in the first period—and made it stand up until 1:42 was left in the half.

On Princeton's first play from scrimmage, Robert Wood raced 40 yards and Bobby McHugh followed with a 12-yard carry to the 26. PHS picked up another first down to the 15 but then the drive stalled and the Little Tigers Meantime, the defense was bailing the visiting Tigers out three times. Wood, at the start of the second period, intercepted a Scott Brunner pass intended for Richard Levy and returned it to the Lawrence 24. PHS was unable to capitalize, however, and make the score 10-0. It was a squandered opportunity that loomed larger as the game went on.

Next, linebacker Dave Lion intercepted another Brunner pass—Brunner was to complete only two all afternoon—but fumbled the ball when he was hit. Nate Harris of PHS fell on the ball on the Lawrence four.

With a little over four minutes left in the half, Whitacre fumbled on the goal line after a five yard run and McHugh recovered in the end zone. "We could have folded right there," said Cardinal coach Ed Shirk.

But the Cardinals didn't. With 1:42 they started again from midfield. Brunner gained 24 on a combination keeper-handoff to Thomas. Thomas raced to the 12 on the next play and Whitacre then went up the middle untouched on the following play.

Kickoff fumbled. Princeton had planned to come out throwing in the second half, reported Beachell, but any early momentum it may have built up during the intermission was lost when Tomlinson fumbled the opening kickoff on the 24. The only score in the third period was a 29-yard field goal by Lawrence tackle Dino Bottoni.

By now, Lawrence had its running game clicking. "The way they're running if we don't catch up in a hurry..." said PHS Principal George Petrillo, a concerned onlooker from the sidelines, not bothering to finish his observation.

His concern and that of PHS followers mounted in a hurry. Two plays into the fourth period, needing two inches for a first down, PHS quarterback Pete Watson tried to sneak. He didn't make it and Lawrence took over on the 23. "Why gamble then?" "It was the fourth period," replied Beachell. "and we should have made it, but it was a had snap."

Three plays later, Whitacre went off tackle from the 13-year line. In a hurry, PHS narrowed the margin to 17-10, following the recovering of a Thomas fumble on the 28 by Wood and an eight-yard TD strike to Steve Tomlinson.

Lawrence hounded right back, however, sticking to the ground. It marched 69 yards in seven plays with Whitacre and Thomas alternating on every play except one. Time remaining: 1:59.

Starting from the 37, Watson, who had been hobbled throughout the game with a bruised ankle, suddenly clicked on four straight completions. He hit Robbie McPherson for one first down, then threw to his end David Lacey for another. Tomlinson caught another and then Watson and Lacey combined on a perfectly thrown pass and fine grab for a 24-yard payoff aerial—Watson's fourth of the season. Tomlinson missed the extra point.

Lawrence then fell on Princeton's on-side kick and ran out the clock.

Depth Problem Surfaces. The outcome confirms what some have up to this point not been willing to concede: that Lawrence is the equal of any team in Mercer County. And while Princeton did make mistakes that Beachell pointed out, the game also confirms his remark that his squad "obviously has a depth problem in the line."

PHS halfback Tommy Thomas got in for one play against Lawrence, reinjured his ankle and did not see action again.

In Tomlinson and Lacy, Beachell has two fine receivers. They were joined Saturday by McPherson who contributed some fine catches of his own, including a leading grab of a high pass in mid-field—the game's outstanding catch.

HUN WINS SECOND

West Windsor 32-0 Victim. "We had an easy one for a change," observed Hun School coach Dave Leete, after his team outclassed West Windsor last week, 32-0.

The win was the second in three starts for Hun, and it already insures the Red and Black of a better season than last fall, when it won only one.

"It will be a big test this week," however, Leete warned when Hun meets Blair Academy Saturday at 1:30 in north Jersey. Blair, like Hun, is 2-1, including a victory over Newark Academy, which Hun defeated in its opening game.

Against Windsor, Hun scored twice in each of the first two periods to open up a commanding 26-0 lead. Fullback Ernie Barbiero banged over from the two and linebacker Lonnie Cathel blocked a punt and picked the ball up for a 25-yard scoring play to account for the first two scores.

In the next period, Tim Teel's one-yard carry climaxed a Hun drive, and Terry McEwen, Hun's most potent offensive weapon, broke free for 74 yards. Easily the most explosive runner for Hun since Jack Petrone was setting rushing and scoring records a few years ago, McEwen amassed 154 yards in 11 carries. "He's quick and he has a lot of natural moves," said Leete.

A 22-yard pass from John Cirelli to end Marty Galullo in the third period completed Hun's scoring. Leete reported that Bruce LiSoocy also ran well for Hun and he cited the defensive play of Cathel.

Hun also welcomed the return of Kelvin Maxie, a 6-1, 205-pound tackle who had been sidelined when he broke his wrist on the second day of practice. "He did fine," said Leete.

West Windsor Vs. Sussex. Across the field, it was another long afternoon for Rex Windsor, coach of the West Windsor Pirates who are playing their first year of varsity ball.

"We knew they would be big and good," said Walker of Hun, "but I saw a 100 per cent improvement in my own team."

"We were hitting better and the kids kept their poise. We held them to six points in the second half and we came back in the fourth quarter." West Windsor was on the Hun five when time ran out.

Next, West Windsor will take the two and one-half hour trip to Sparta to play Sussex Vocational. The game will be played Saturday at 1:30.

After winning its first two, Sussex lost its first last week, 20-12, to Lenape Valley. "They're aggressive but not particularly big," said Walker. "They'll be favored but with a couple of breaks, maybe we'll win that first one."

LASERS SAIL SATURDAY On Lake Carnegie. The Carnegie Sailing Club will host its Touchdown Bowl Regatta this Saturday, with a series of Laser races beginning at 9:45 and ending in time for the Princeton-Colgate football team.

In last weekend's action Tad LaFountain won all six Laser races and captured the Walt Jefferson handicap for the greatest improvement over the spring series average. Peter Bordes was second, followed by Ed Metcalf.

The 10-boat Sunfish fleet was topped by Walt Gibson. John Skinner finished second, ahead of Dick Jessor and Nancy Henderson. The sailors competed in a wind that blew almost down the lake, providing a long, windward leg with enough shifts and holes to keep the skippers off balance.

RUG MART, MOTORS WIN

In Midget Football. The Rug and Furniture Mart eked out a 7-0 win over the Princeton University Store last Sunday in Princeton Midget Football League action. The game's only score came on a 53-yard run by Jeff Marshall, who broke three tackles to reach the end zone.

In the second game, Nassau Conover Motors handed Princeton Fuel Oil its second shutout of the season, 18-0. Jay Budd, Chris Price, Tony Pittman and Bob Flippin led the Nassau offense.

The Rug Mart ground game was paced by Marshall and John Forrey. The U-Store's passing combination of John Thompson and Don Johnson threatened throughout the game.

Fuel Oil was bottled up all day by the Nassau Conover defense, sparked by Dave Johnson, Kelly Robinson and Ed Kennedy. Peter Sharpless, Bob Rice, Dwight Bullock, Rob Healy and Tom Raser were strong hands on the beleaguered Fuel Oil defense.

ZERO-ZERO ACTION

Fur Midget Juniors. Last Saturday was the Day of the Defense in the junior division of the Princeton Midget Football League, as four teams played two scoreless ties. J. P. Cleaver and Sibson & Co. battled each other in the opener, while Hilton Realty and First National Bank ended in a stalemate in the second game.

The junior division games are played Saturday mornings at 9 and 10 at Grover Park Field. This Saturday Hilton will meet Peterson Construction at 9 and Sibson will play First National at 10.

The Cleaver offense was led by the passing of Dan Miller and the receiving of Todd Kuhn and Peter Nelson. Tim Koether and Bill Sneed handled the bulk of the running game. Leading the Cleaver defense with four tackles apiece were Tim Kennedy, Nelson and Sneed.

Mike Kennedy and Tim Martin paced the Sibson of Hilton's offense featured a running attack generated by Mike Macmanus, Steve Budd, Mike McCabe and Tim Bertone. Bertone also shone on defense, with 11 tackles. The Hilton effort was aided by Paul Curschmann's five tackles, and four each by John Denny, McCabe, and Macmanus.

David Wayne, Tom Florence and John Kellogg were standouts on offense for First National. Kellogg, Chris Hendel, Mike Leahy and Judd Petrone made six tackles apiece and Jeff Henkel added four.

MARTIN KEEPS ROLLING
Gill-St. Bernard Next. Bill Martin, who disappeared entirely from the Princeton Day School football program a year ago because of an ankle injury, and who almost disappeared again this year because of what his coach described as an attitude problem, is back in form physically and spiritually and making up for lost time.

Last Saturday Martin, a 6-foot-1, 195-pound tailback who has been clocked at 4.6 seconds in the 40-yard dash, ran for 333 yards in 16 carries and scored six touchdowns as the Panthers clobbered Morristown-Beard, 56-34. Not bad at all since the Panthers racked up a 50-0 lead at halftime and Martin and the rest of the regulars saw only limited second-half duty.

This Friday Coach John Boneparth's team resumes its quest for another state prep football title. PDS hosts Gill-St. Bernard's, in what ought to be a tune-up before final games with Wardlaw on October 26 and Hun November 1.

The key to success this year, and next year for that matter—he's only a junior—will undoubtedly be Martin. The tailback gave blaring advertisements of his presence in the first three games, with 206 yards in an opening loss at Chestnut Hill, 187 against Englewood and 203 against Montclair. But so far, at least, the stacked defenses have failed to contain his running.

"He combines speed with size," said Boneparth. "He can get to the openings very quickly and once he's open, watch out! He's loaded with ability."

Three-Sport Starter. So far this season Martin has broken the PDS single season rushing record, set last year by Tim Hamid, with 929 yards. "Only" 200 yards more per game would put Martin over the 1,500 yard mark for the season. His six touchdowns Saturday gave him a season total of 13.

A resident of Trenton and a graduate of junior high school there, Martin came to PDS as a freshman and promptly became the leading prep football scorer in the Delaware Valley. He also became a starting forward on the PDS basketball team and took up a new sport, lacrosse. He's now a starting midfielder.

Last year Martin ran into trouble before the football season began. He broke his ankle in a preseason scrimmage with the Pennington School and didn't return until the final game of the season. This year Martin acquired what Boneparth said was "a little problem of attitude." Boneparth suspended his star for several days right before the Englewood game. "It was a tough time for us," said the coach, "but Billy came back with a much better outlook. He's been practicing harder and that's paying off in the games."

Unstoppable. Martin also plays linebacker on defense for the Panthers. "He's loaded with ability," said Boneparth. Bob Olsson got PDS started against Morristown-Beard by intercepting a pass and returning the ball to the M-B 20. Lee Schley scored again on a 15-yard pass from Mark Blaxill to Ralph Browne.

Then Martin reeled off scoring runs of 6, 33, 11, 62 and 70 yards. Princeton Day went into the locker room at halftime after scoring every time it got the ball. Martin surfaced again on offense in the fourth quarter and carried 27 yards for his final touchdown. Undoubtedly a cake walk.

PHS GIRLS WIN AGAIN
Field Hockey Undefeated. The Princeton High School girl's field hockey team remained undefeated, topping Lawrence High School, 3-0, and Princeton Day School, 1-0, last week.

The Tiger attack picked up the pace in the second half, against Lawrence Ellen Chang scoring twice and the third goal added by the center halfback, Claire Johnston.

The PHS attack controlled the ball the entire game against Princeton Day, but failed to score until the second half, when Kristin Nelson forced a shot past the goalkeeper.

The PHS junior varsity also remained undefeated, beating Lawrence, 2-1, and tying PDS 1-1, the lone goal scored by Kate Campbell. Princeton High will meet Hamilton and Notre Dame High Schools this week.

IVY FALLS AGAIN
In Flag Football. Ivy Inn continued its losing ways in Mercer County Flag Football last Sunday, losing to PG Lounge, 34-12. The Inn will face Arthur Lounge Sunday morning at 10:45 in Moody Park, Trenton.

Bruce Sandvik connected on a 60-yard scoring pass to David Sweeney to get Ivy off to an early 6-0 lead, but it was short-lived. Arthur's tied the game at the half, and then scored four unanswered touchdowns in the third and fourth periods.

Tom DeVito caught a five-yard touchdown pass from Sandvik late in the game. The Ivy score was set up by a 60-yard kickoff return in which DeVito and Sweeney executed a reverse handoff to break loose.
